GENEALOGY COLLECTION

We Created this Yearbook to be

{YOURBOOK}

DOES NOT CIRCULATE

FIRST, please CHECK CAREFULLY that your book is in fact YOUR BOOK. If your name is Bob and you have Jim's book, give Jim his book back (or return the book to the yearbook room). Check CAREFULLY for printing flaws, such as blank pages, upside-down, or wrinkled pages. If you discover concerns in your book, feel free to return it before you write in the book. Once you have written in your book, IT IS YOURS TO KEEP! No take backsies.

THEN, write your name in the book, so it can be easily identified and better protected against theft. We do not want anyone's book to be stolen. This book was made, and bought, for you. We want to keep it that way. (We are not responsible for any gang fights that result from the dealing or mugging of or for this yearbook or past yearbook(s). Readers discretion has been advised.)

NEXT, our staff tried to make sure we have created an inclusive yearbook with as few mistakes and spelling errors as possible. If you have any concerns about the book, or recommendations for next year (we like recommendations!), please write them down and bring them to the yearbook room. Please keep in mind that the yearbook is created by students for the students. We try to make it great, but it is not a professional publication. #NoHaters

FINALLY, we want to thank the YB staff and all the fantastic professional photographers for an amazing book filled with some of the best photography we have had to summarize this past school year. Although we made every attempt and spent half of the summer to make this an accurate account of the year, some errors are bound to occur. It is my hope that you will share with staff members what you like about the book.

{ We entered high school with a blank slate. A plain, white canvas that we would get all to ourselves for the next four years. We painted our canvas all throughout those four years with the memories that made us who we are. All of our canvases look different, but all of them are tied together by one detail: the streak of black and gold. Even as some of us graduate and continue on with a new white canvas, that black and gold streak will always be a part of us.

This yearbook is all about a blank canvas, and the colorful memories that have painted it, and continue to paint it, throughout our lives. Titled "Etc.", this book highlights the things in life that can't be described by words. Even if it can be described by words, we can't find the ones we need, and end up using the term "etc." to tell everyone that there is more to life than what is on the surface. With a heavy emphasis on photography, the Jasper High School Yearbook Staff hopes you enjoy this book and find yourself speechless, searching for the words that describe your high school years. }

"I don't know, you just get out of your shell more. When you're a freshman you just stand outside, and when you're a senior you're going all out," says senior Leo Magana (center) about his first freshmen dance.

Tie-Dye The Night

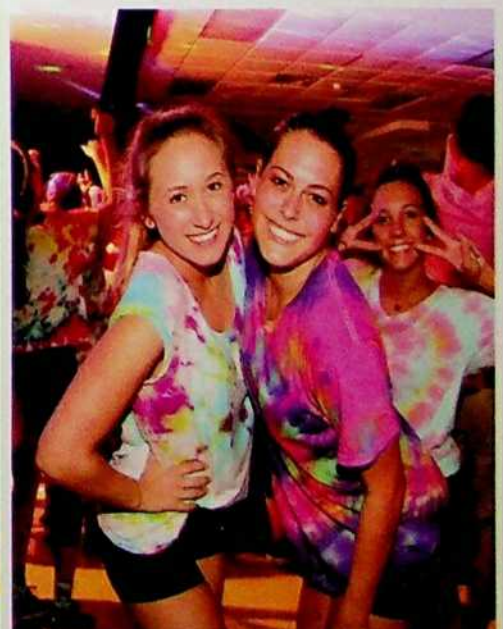

Page By: Mila Vernon and Emily Huddleston

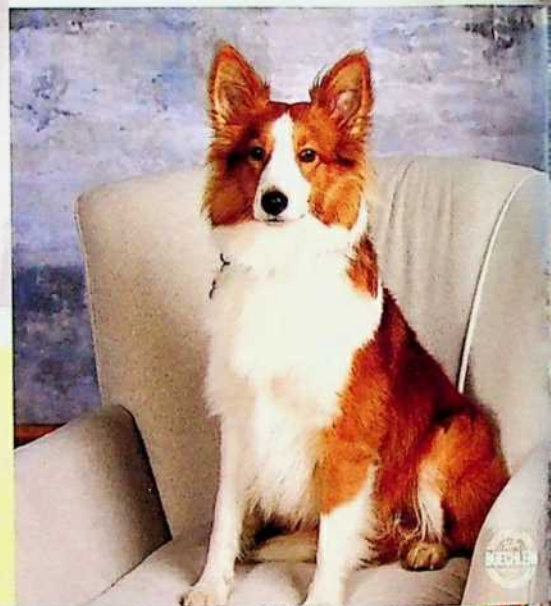

The adrenaline that goes through a freshman's body on the first day of high school is one thing, but the heart pounding experience of their first high school dance is another. Saturday night, August 13, Jasper High School held their first big event of the school year: the traditional back to school dance. Originally named the "Welcome Frosh Dance," the back to school dance is the first major Wildcat happening that every student attends. Every year, each class has a different theme. The senior's theme this year was tie-dye, followed by the junior's camo, and the sophomore's black shirts and shorts. All freshmen enter the cafeteria first. Soon after, the seniors start their countdown. When they reach one (and followed by many screams) all upperclassmen run into the middle of the dance floor to get the night started. Everyone danced the night away and had a blast doing so.

This dance marks the beginning of a new school year. Rich with tradition, the dance has been a staple for generations of Jasper High School students, and it will remain. Although the dance is a bit of a controversy, the students come together to convince the administration that this dance must live on.

"Everybody was pushing, pushing a lot. We fell on the stage a couple times in the cafeteria," jokes senior Brooklyn Pierce (far left) when asked about her first freshmen dance.

Furry Friends

Throughout the year, students have seen many new furry faces among the student body thanks to Jasper High School's vice principal, Mr. Buechlein. The comfort dogs were introduced to provide students with a way to get rid of negative energy, and a way to calm down during a rough day. Each dog has to go through training before they can officially become a Jasper High School comfort dog, but that hasn't seemed to deter any candidates from joining the school. Mrs. Stenftenagel's dog, Serena, has become a school favorite and can be seen in different classrooms throughout the day, enjoying all the attention. Peanut, Mr. Wilson's contribution to the program is an energetic pup that is always running around the office. There are many dogs that are often seen in the school, like Mr. Eckerts dog Dexter, Mrs. Schroering's dalmatian, and Mr. Buechlein's friendly boxer. The program may be new to the school but it is much loved, and will hopefully remain a staple.

Seniors Alyssa Collignon, Emma Hopf, Reagan Otto, and Shaydan Troxler enjoy themselves on the homecoming game against Mt. Carmel. The night's theme was Hawaiian!

Everybody needs a little cheering on. There needs to be a leader that hypes everybody up before and during the game. Team Tailgate is the master of hooting and hollering. To keep the entire student section excited, "We try to get everybody hyped up before the game. It can be hard to keep them yelling for the whole game, but the cheerleaders help with that," says senior Ashdon Donato. While many other clubs are indoor oriented, Team Tailgate is focused outside. The tailgaters team up outside before each game and exchange enthusiastic comments and food. Everybody brings something, along with a little music, and it makes for an outdoor party, A.K.A a tailgate! Senior Evan Aders proudly says, "It's one of my favorite times of the year. It's fun to meet up with friends beforehand and get ready, then we just go out and scream."

Seniors Kyle Hollinden, Reece Kleinhelter, Chloe Berger, and Emily Haas; along with juniors Andrew Hochgesang, Dawson Hopf, Noah Luebbehusen, Emma Stallings, and Jay Fritch, are all smiles on September 16th. "SOFA club is a place for people to come together that love the arts and want to share in their creative pursuits. SOFA club has always been that nice place to have like-minded people come together, and just create," states senior Hilary Bauer, who holds the position of president of SOFA club. Throughout this school year, and a bit of last year's, the SOFA club has been selling Azura bagels for a profit to help raise funds for the upcoming Greece trip that many SOFA members are signed up to attend. The trip will occur June 12, 2017 and the students will be gone until the 23rd of the same month.

"It's kind of nice being in SOFA club because some of the club activities expand into summer," says Bauer about the clubs programs. Just one of the summer programs that SOFA club attends is the Chalk Walk which is held on the square on June 3rd.

The club planned a tentative event to visit West Baden in French Lick to see the dome. The trip was inspired by junior Moira Frey who is an exchange student from Switzerland. When the famous dome was brought up in class, Frey didn't know what it was. Soon after, Mr. Dodd and Mrs. Fleck planned a trip to visit the architectural design of the dome as well as the painted designs within the dome. Sadly, the trip was canceled last minute so the students could see Eva Kor speak.

UNICEF got together on October 19th to raise money for children in third world countries. UNICEF stands for United Nations Children's Fund. This organization "helps children worldwide and provides humanitarian and developmental assistance to children and mothers in developing countries." (from unicef.org) UNICEF at the high school has been operating for years now under the supervision of Mr. Dodd. In past years, the number of volunteers for the club has fluctuated. This year, though, there was a great influx of student participants and a variety of costumes. There was a pirate, Frida Kahlo, Peter Pan, two unicorns, a panda, a prom queen, Arrietty, Sherlock Holmes, a Hippie, Minnie Mouse, a vampire, a penguin, a Purge victim, a gumball machine, a soldier, and many other strange and creative outfits.

Key Club

Key Club is a national organization for students to join and work in community service, volunteer work, and a great place to make lifelong friends and leave a positive mark on your community. Key Club every year does work such as clean the Riverwalk and roadways, Bell Ringing with the Salvation Army, Day Without Shoes, Fifth Street Carnival, and Strassenfest. With President Danielle Buechlein, Vice President Madison Weidenbenner, and Secretary Priscilla Olson, Key Club had a fun and successful year with their volunteer work and impact on the community. "Key Club has given me the chance to impact the world around me," says senior and Key Club Secretary Priscilla Olson.

Speech & Debate

2017 was an exciting year for the Speech and Debate team and was full of memorable moments, especially for the senior class. "The best moment of this year would be Polen giving the seniors little speech pins to commemorate our speech tenure. It was unexpected and sentimental," said senior Hilary Bauer. "We were also able to host a meet this year which was a lot of fun!" Bauer was one of the 5 team members that competed at the state competition. This senior heavy state trip included; Hannah Rydberg, Nicole Kress, Priscilla Olson, Abigail Hopf, Hilary Bauer, and junior Will Dixon. "More people should join this club," Bauer added, "because more people are afraid of public speaking than dying, so we are definitely thrill seekers."

To Pep & Prepare

Student council isn't a club for the weak. The club comes with the mandatory dedication that is necessary for perseverance. Student Council is a committee that provides fun events for the students and creates an entertaining environment for all. From hosting pep rallies and having spirit weeks before a giant sporting event to hosting dances such as Winter

Formal and Prom, the Student Council has been keeping busy and keeping students involved for years. The students also get together to host a Thanksgiving dinner for during lunch for all the students. Members of the club get together and help out lunch ladies serve the lunches and others walk around the cafeteria handing out delicious desserts. The club also sells warm and gooey cookies for only a dollar during lunch to help raise funds and to treat the students.

Friends of Rachel

Friends of Rachel is a club created in the memory of Rachel Scott, one of the victims of the Columbine School Shooting. The club focuses on bullying, with an emphasis on the message written by Rachel Scott, which was to start a "chain reaction." For the past two years the club has put notes on students lockers emblazoned with positive messages. This year the club invited a guest speaker, Christine Schmitt, to spread the message of suicide prevention and the warning signs of suicide. The club participates in many events in and around the school. This year, the students helped the janitorial staff clean the hallways and sold candy canes.

SADD promotes a no-use policy against tobacco, alcohol, and other drug use. SADD has been said to have a huge impact on young people's lives. Every year, SADD has two big weeks, red ribbon week and orange ribbon week. National Red Ribbon Week is filled with awareness for drug and violence prevention. During each passing period, a siren is heard over the intercom, representing a young person's life lost due to a drug overdose. SADD is in many schools around the nation and has saved millions of students' lives by bringing awareness to the destructive decisions that can be made, and the consequences of those choices.

Jasper High School added a new member to its club collection this year with the Ping-Pong Club. Compiled of many students, the Ping-Pong Club gives students the chance to meet others and learn how to play ping-pong through practice and competitions. Though not as strong as it once was at the beginning of the school year, the Ping Pong Club nevertheless thrived as one of the popular clubs of the year.

On the evening of January 9th, four seniors and 58 juniors gathered on the auditorium stage to be inducted into what is known as the National Honor Society (NHS). Students were chosen by a selected teacher council, and must have a 4.0 or higher GPA in order to be considered for membership, as well as no prior suspensions or expulsions from school. Each year, around the country, over $12 million is given out as scholarships to NHS members. Congradulations to all new and returning members of the Sapiens Chapter in the 66th Annual NHS

The spell bowl had an amazing run this year by placing first in district and class. Junior Aurora Mendel won a ribbon for an almost perfect score, missing just one word. Spell bowl is a written competition rather than a speaking one. The club likes to have a lot of fun during practices and the bus rides to and from the spell bowl competition.

The LGBT rainbow flag has been around since 1978, going through many revisions. The colors represent different aspects that are important in life. In order, red represents life, orange is healing, yellow is sunlight, green is nature, blue is serenity, and purple represents spirit. Hot pink (which represents sexuality) was removed from the flag in 1979 due to the lack of fabric availability.

GSA, Gay Straight Alliance, has been a club at Jasper High School for several years now. This club was formed to talk about issues in the LGBT community and to create a helpful space for students to come and speak about problems they face at home or out in the community. This year's club president was senior Jesse Fromme. He was always present at every meeting and leading every meeting during the 2016-2017 school year. Every year, GSA adds new events and invites new people to come and speak at meetings. The number one event that the entire school can participate in is the Day of Silence. By pledging to stay silent, students are showing support to those who have taken their lives. During the Day of Silence, GSA asks everyone to place their handprint onto a banner, which represents their support to the students.

Practically Perfect in Every Way

Cast members perform their favorite number of the musical, "Step in Time."

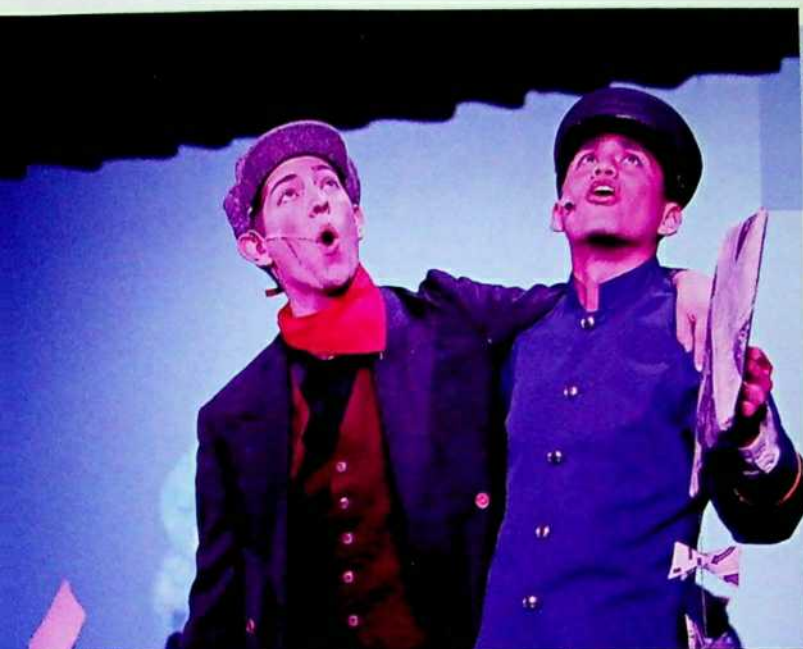

The few months of Tuesday and Thursday rehearsals finally came to an end on October 13th: opening night. The show started at seven, but many cast members came to the theatre as early as three hours before the show. One of those members was Mary Poppins herself, junior Emma Grow. Coming in around 3:30, Grow did stretches to help her warm up for the show. "I am super excited for the show," says Emma, "I have a lot more family coming than I thought which makes everything so much more exciting." Two hours before the show, prepping began. Cast members began working on their hair and makeup. Junior Jack Greener was one of the students that assisted on doing makeup. Greener is well known for doing the makeup for many of the students. After makeup, Emma Grow and Kyle Holinden practiced one of the first, and most challenging, scenes in the musical. They both would have to do a quick change of clothes in under 30 seconds. For Kyle, it was changing from a regular pair of pants to a red and white striped pair and a matching red and white striped blazer. For Emma, it was changing from one dress to another. Jack Greener and senior Piper Keusch assisted Emma on changing from one costume to another. "I have to see the video Kyle took while we did the change," says Greener after a second take on the costume change, "there is no way we went over 30 seconds on it." After practicing a few songs and doing vocal warm ups with choir director S.J. Burns, cast members that had a mic did a mic check. All the members with a mic have a number, and all stand in numerical order. After mic checks (there were a few complications, but nothing that could not be fixed) everyone finished touching up their makeup and putting on their costumes. It was show time. The first five rows filled up quickly. After every musical number there was a cheer from the audience. All cast members spoke with a perfect British accent. There was a 15 minute break between both acts that many audience members used to stretch their legs. Act two began with a new nanny played by junior Kira Cantu, that scare the two children, Jane (Kara Skorge) and Michael (Ethan Fritch), into running away from home. When running away, the children run into Bert (Holinden) which then leads into the musical number "Let's Go Fly a Kite." One of the numbers following shortly after was "Step in Time." "I think we can all agree that 'Step in Time' is the best number. Everyone knows the dance," says senior Gina Stone, who works the music for the show. In the end, the show was a big hit. The very last number was followed by the cast members taking a bow. Grow and Holinden both bowed last and in return got a standing ovation. The musical was, as Mary Poppins would say, "practically perfect in every way."

FLY TOGETHER

Seniors Kyle Holinden and Louise Lopez sing "Let's Go Fly a Kite" together on the opening night of Mary Poppins. Holinden starred as Bert while Lopez was a police officer.

THE ARTIST

Junior Jack Greener was the artist of the night, doing many of the performers' makeup, including his own. Greener had the difficult task of making Junior Kylie Schwellath into Mrs. Corry in Mary Poppins. Mrs. Corry's character had dark eyebrows that had to be drawn on and also wore a load of bright orange eye shadow.

SHOW TIME

Priscilla Olsen (L), McKenzie Cooley (M), Klara Abelar, and Rhegann Welshell (R) prepare for the big opening night show. More than 10 girls had to cram themselves into the small dressing room and take turns doing their own and other's makeup.

Fairies of Fall

When a new band season starts, friendships are created and bonds are made. The guard forges those bonds by celebrating birthdays, helping each other with work, and confiding in one another. The guard members become a family by the time band season is over, and when winter guard season rolls around, they often become even closer.

Color guard takes dedication and patience. Patience to learn, and in some cases relearn, routines. A guard member also needs dedication when it comes to early practices and frustration. What the color guard does may seem easy, but in all reality the work results in bumps and bruises, and sore muscles.

The band's show this year was A Mid-Autumn Night's Dream, which called for the color guard to be dressed as fairies with green uniforms that looked as though vines were coming up the legs, a half tie-dyed and half orange high-low skirt, which complimented the flowers in their hair. This season the color guard won many awards at competitions for their visual performance, and they finished the season off by placing third at state.

Fear The Cheer

Cheerleading is full of tough competition. Although, the Jasper High School cheer team leads the pack when it comes to tough competition! The girls push through tough routines and still end up at the top of the leaderboards, and just last year they were declared state champs!

While at state this year, the girls cheer team faced some trouble when a fellow team mate collapsed on the floor from a head injury. Although the girls did not get to finish their routine, they pulled through and placed third overall. Though the injury may have cost them a few points, they still placed extremely well! This season is just one example of just how great our girls are at competing!

Shooting for the Stars

The Marching Wildcat's show for the 2016 season was called 'A Mid-Autumn Night's Dream'. The show featured senior baritone Noah Wright as a soloist. Wright was a centerpiece for the majority of the show, breaking from the forms that the rest of the band made, and weaving in and out of the formations.

The show illustrated the transition from sundown, to night, to sunrise, which was represented by the seven tarps that were placed on the field. As the show progressed, color guard members folded and unfolded the tarps to reveal a new image corresponding to the music and time of day they were meant to represent. The color guard sported green leotards and had their hair adorned with a flower piece. Like the tarps, the guard changed their flags throughout the show. Senior Drum Majors Danielle Buechlein, Kaitlyn Mann, and Jesse Fromme and junior Drum Major Grace Harmon tried a new look this year, wearing feathers that sprouted from shoulders of their uniforms. These feathers were used by all band students by the end of the season.

After a positive season with high scores throughout the season, the Marching Wildcats placed third in the ISSMA State Finals at Lucas Oil Stadium.

Flaming Swings

Taking the green by storm, the Jasper golf girls achieved many accomplishments this season. The girls fired through meets, with 31 wins and only 7 losses. They advanced to Big 8 and placed first, then placed first in sectionals. They went on to regionals and placed 5th. After their season was over, awards were given to several of the girls for their hard work, sportsmanship, and cooperation. The All Conference Award went to juniors Maddie Wagner, Gillian Blessinger, and sophomore Haley Schroeder. Junior Maddie Wagner also received The Most Valuable Player award. The Mental Attitude award was received by junior Gillian Blessinger. The Most Improved went to junior Hannah Welp. The girls enjoyed the bus rides with games and rekindling old flames. They bonded throughout the season, rooting for each other per swing they made. The ladies always coached each other through practices and matches, sharing laughs as they walked to their next hole. The players lifted each others spirits while hoping to receive the lowest score they could achieve. Each game they play was played with effort and determination.

The 13th Anniversary

Wins: 11 Losses: 6 Ties: 1 Page By: Kayla Thimling

Thirteen years of victory, thirteen years of loss. The graduating 2017 senior class has seen it all; well, has seen each other for the past thirteen years. Unified by the common sport of soccer at the early age of four, soccer has been a prominent factor in these seniors' lives. Rotating through endless pairs of cleats with every passing season, soccer and the bonds forged in these years came second nature to this tightly-knit group. Despite the seniors constituting half of the team, nine juniors and one sophomore also contributed to the team dynamic. Drawing the curtain on the season, the girls took a grand bow to a win-loss-tie record of 11-6-1. Placing first in the BIG 8 tournament, the girls carried on to Sectionals against Evansville Harrison, winning 5-0. On October 8 the girls advanced to round two of Sectionals at Evansville Memorial. After a plethora of seasons, the girls closed the door on their high school soccer careers with a loss of 0-6. After years of dedication and devotion, goodbye is around the corner. These goodbyes are always the most difficult, however, the zealous team spirit is left entrusted to the rising underclassmen players of the Varsity and JV teams.

"Playing with these girls the past 13 years has been the time of my life. I'm going to miss them and this sport so much."

Firmly placing their feet into the door of high school sports, the JV girls team proved their potential this season. Following a five match win streak, the girls fell to their only defeat of the season against Castle with a score of 0-2. Despite the loss, the girls continued with a four match win streak concluded with a 0-0 tie against Bloomington South. The season cinched to an end with a record of 9-1-1. An often unspoken tenet of JV sports is the number of sedulous players it offers. Brimming with improvement and talent, the girls JV team promises potential and hope for the future Varsity team; a part of which many players aspire to earn a vying position. Carrying 10 sophomores and 11 freshmen, the gameplay was abound with fresh legs and eager attitudes at the ready. When asked to recount a special memory from this season, freshman Allison Bielawa, laughs, saying, "There was one time where the JV and Varsity were on the same bus and we listened to the High School Musical and Pitch Perfect soundtracks the whole time. Everyone sang and it was awesome," pausing, she adds, "We all grew closer and became better firends and helped each other with our weaknesses. We're a family. Maybe we didn't win every single game but at the end of the day we had each other. That's a win."

"This year, the players were really well-rounded on the field and in school."

The Jasper girls varsity volleyball made it far in the season, surpassing even the highest expectations. The girls placed second in Big 8, first in sectional, and second in regional, making it further than any other volleyball team in a few years. Some remarkable things that the girls received were the post season honors. Seniors Maria Gobert and Alexa Stenftenagel were named to the ICGSA Volleyball Academic All-State team for their work on the court and in the classroom. Senior Alexa Stenftenagel and juniors Maddie Edwards and Libby Bell were named to the All Big Eight team. Alexa Stenftenagel also received the Pat Zehr Most Valuable award. Maria Gobert had also received the Mental Attitude award and the Amanda Garland Heart of a Champion award. Junior Anna Moeller was given the Most Improved award. They lifted everybody's spirits on their way to the top, making the the volley queens end on a high note for the season.

What was one of your favorite games this year and why?

"Leukemia night against Forest Park was a fun game because it was against a local team. We had a lot of fun and it was not as competitive because that night was to [show respect for cancer victims and their families." - Senior Maria Gobert

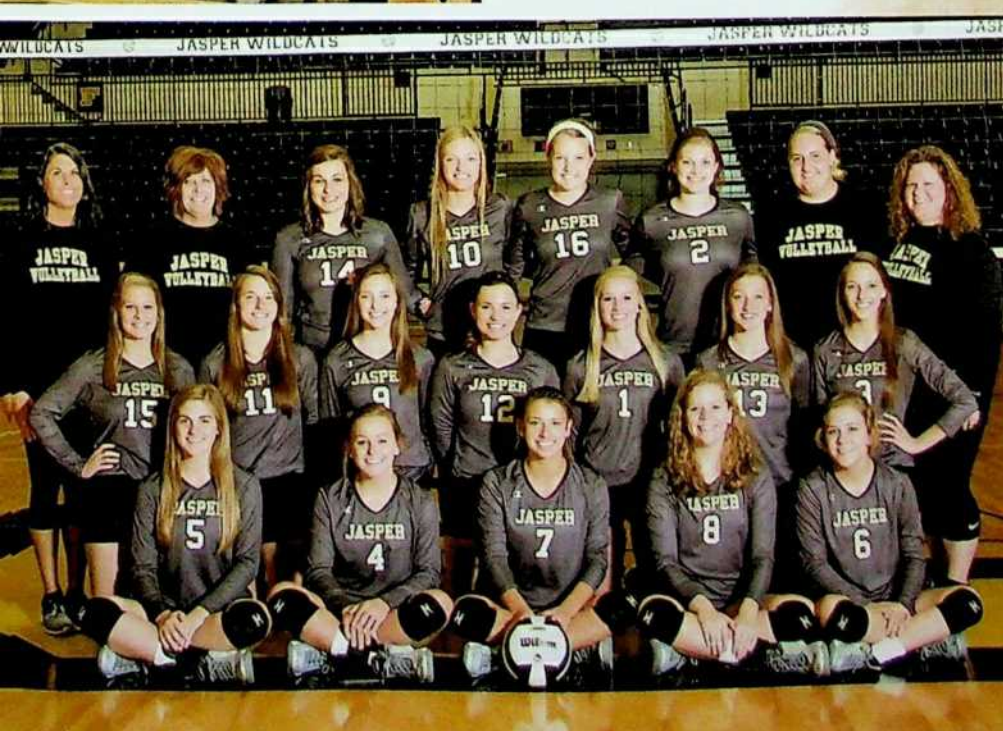

What is your favorite memory this season?

"Getting stranded on the side of the highway. We had to leave the bus and walk/run down this hill and sit in the woods because they did not know what was wrong with the bus or want us to get hurt."

It was another season for the books for the JV team. The season hit a spike around the end, having 6 wins in a row. Their hardest match was against powerhouse Castle, who JHS has struggled to compete with in the past. It was an invite, and the girls almost beat them in the three games. Through the losses and wins, the best memories tended to be the little ones. The nonstop volleyball playing at team camp, the bus rides, and uncontrollable laughing. "The season was very good, we really became a little family." Ms. Schuetter commented about the girls. "They improved tremendously and worked well together. Our hardest obstacle was meshing a team that has never played together into a family.

Throughout the season, the 12 players bonded through every game they played together. The girls coached each other through the tough moments, such as the tough matches they were yet to play. In the end, the girls ended with a great and well rounded season.

This year the Freshman Volleyball team has been led by coaches Marsha Archer and Michelle Spond through a challenging but fun season. The girls played fourteen games competing against schools like Heritage Hills, Southridge, and Castle. The team is composed of eight talented and hard-working young women. Before every game they would practice together and improve their skills on the court and encourage each other with their serving and spiking. The girls played with enthusiasm and a fresh spirit that only Freshman bring to the game. With their last game in October against Castle, the girls ended the year with a total of nine wins and eleven losses.

With more than half of the girls cross country team being seniors, it was a hard night on September 27th when the girls celebrated their careers as runners with the Jasper schools. With the majority of seniors running for almost 7 years, they were amazing attributes to the team. Each senior walked to the front of the crowd to meet their parents as their accomplishments were announced, followed by their future plans and favorite memories from cross country.

The All Conference award went to senior Tara Cassidy, senior Noelle Weyer, sophomore Alyssa Skorge, sophomore Leah Schnell, and senior Grace Mehringer. Tara Cassidy was also the recipient of the "Most Valuable" and the "Outstanding Senior" awards. The "Mental Attitude" award went to Sydney Traylor (senior) and Kate Weaver (junior) was the "Most Improved Runner" of the season. Freshman Annie Brake received the "Outstanding Freshman" award and the "Die Hard" award went to senior Noelle Weyer.

My favorite memory from cross country is when I had to use the bathroom so a few of us jogged awhile until we found a random person's house and they let me use their bathroom.

The boy's Cross Country team had a successful fall with 115 wins and 55 losses. As the season went on the boys began growing a strong bond together and indefinitely grew stronger as a team. The boys prevailed this year with the help of their coach Kevin Schipp. "The boys team had a great season. They worked hard everyday and improved throughout the season. Working hard as a team resulted in winning the Big 8 Championship and advancing to the Brown County Semi State," said Coach Schipp. The boy's team worked hard all season and did an absolutely fantastic job.

The boys' tennis team graduated 5 players in 15-16, but still had a suprisingly sucessful season in 16-17. With an ending record of 13 wins and 9 losses, the boys and their coaches were proud. This year, the All Conference award winners were sophomore Eli Franks and juniors Lucas Eby, Noah Mendel, and Noah Luebbehusen. The most valuable award went to Noah Mendel. The mental attitude award went to Noah Luebbehusen. however, the awards weren't all about the mental attitude of the players or the most valuable member. Tennis is also about skills. The most improved team member was sophomore Mickey Kluemper and the hustle award went to junior Lucas Eby. The teammate of the year, though all the team members were great, went to junior Noah Schum. On the other hand, it takes a dedicated member of the team to pull through and have a positive outlook on all the matches, win or lose. The most dedicated award went to Lucas Eby. The tennis boys won the Big 8 Conference, sectionals, and regional championships, making it to semi-state. Unfortunately, their season was cut short with a tough semi-state loss. The JHS tennis team still had a great year, making the boys and their coaches excited for next year.

This season the soccer team experienced many highlights. The team started off the year going 3-0 during the Indiana/Kentucky challenge! With that weekend starting off on a high note, when the team beat Lake Central, who was ranked at number one, 2-1. This year's team could be considered the "Dream Team", because of only the three losses this team has experienced. This year the team ended on an even higher note, with a 14 game winning streak, and was ranked in the top 10 in the state for first time in school history. Along with these achievements, the team went on to win the Big 8 Conference for the fourth year in a row. Reaching their goal for the season the Boys Varsity Soccer team aimed high and followed the road to success all the way to sectionals.

This season was a tough one for the JV boys. With ten wins, six losses, and one tie, the boys managed to pull off a positive season. With many incoming freshman, the team did very well. Freshman Jackson Kabrick received a Varsity Letter along with Angelino Dubon, Drake

Lechner, Brian Chevez, Jacob Hessler, Gerardo Serrano, Quintin Gordan, all juniors, and Tyler Hunt, sophomore. On September 10th, The Junior Varsity played against Mount Vernon, Memorial, and Washington for a tourney. With three wins 8-0, 4-0, 2-0, the Jasper boys were the champions.

What is it like being a swing player?

Hustle, Hit & Never Quit

The varsity team held together tightly despite the hard tackles the team took this season. "This year was about holding the team together, and just learning how to work with new teammates. We really struggled at times, but I think it brought us a lot closer," enthuses senior Justin Rottet. The entire team bonded through their wins (4), as well as their losses (5). "We learned a lot this year," believes me, "senior Ian Jahn shares, "It took a lot of teamwork, but we overcame most of our obstacles." This year, the boys really understood lining up their priorities. They always made sure to keep each other motivated and doing their best. "This year was definitely about keeping the guys in line, we really grew together," says sophomore Zachary Flynn.

"I just think this year was a lot about learning how to cope and understand each other. We really had to adjust and commit more than we ever have."

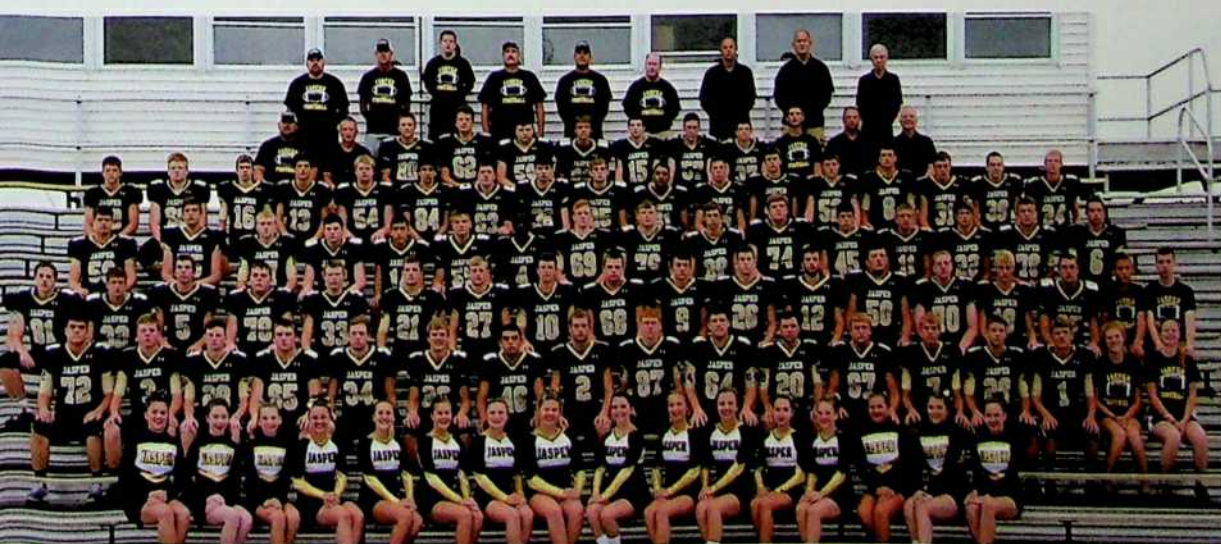

The varsity boys played hard this year, landing wins against Boonville, Vincennes Lincoln, Princeton, Washington, and Mt. Vernon.

The Boys of Fall

This year the boys' overall theme was "to improve our skills to become varsity football players," according to coach Joe Shelton. The junior varsity football team faced a bit of a set back this year when part of the team went to play for the varsity football team. Although, with this switch up, many boys who would not normally have a leadership position stepped up and took charge. Next year, when juniors like Alex Lawyer move on to play on the varsity team, many of the boys will have to fill their spots. It was a "good learning experience," says Lawyer about his leadership role on the team. "It was a very successful (JV football) season," says coach Shelton.

"Good learning experience for everybody. It was fun to help lead."

-Alex Lawyer, junior

The 2016 junior varsity football season was full of new beginnings and new positions. Players who originally played for the freshmen team were moved up into positions they would not have originally been offered. Sophomores Kale Burke and Skyler Padgett, managers of the football team, talk at a football game (Below).

Collin Cassidy, number 88, and Kadon Hurm, number 15, look over their shoulder as the ball is being passed towards them. Cassidy had led the team this year with three interceptions. Hurm ended the year with 17 tackles.

Elliot Hopf, number 24, absorbs the force of three other players as they tackle him. Elliot Hopf led the team in scores, topping at 78 for the season. "The season was sort of up and down, and we worked really hard in practice to encourage each other," Elliot proudly acknowledged how hard the team tried this year.

The team lines up proudly as they honor the flag before a game against Castle. The boys had an epic victory, ending in a 20-8. The boys went in with their heads held high, and fought their hardest despite allegations that they would lose.

tackled harder. Although, they played as a team the hardest. The boys this year were strongly bonded like glue. "We never failed to pray before each game as a whole," freshman Elliot Hopf reveals, "that was definitely something that kept us each grounded and reminded us that we were in this together." The team worked hard this year, each player making sure the other surpassed his limits in not only practice, but also the games. "It's tough to stay motivated when you're getting beat, but we made sure everybody played their best, regardless," shares freshman Nathan Rillo.

Coming Home From Homecoming

Walking into school Monday (September 26th) there were numerous students in sight wearing a jersey, the first spirit day theme of homecoming week. Following was tie-dye day. Some seniors were seen sporting the same tie-dye shirts they wore to the back-to-school dance in August. Wacky socks were worn on Wednesday. There were quite a few students that looked rather dashing on Classy Thursday. Then came Friday: black and gold. Few students were lacking black and gold attire, but one would have to search the school to find that needle in a haystack. At the end of Friday came the pep rally. Every year, the pep rally has a theme. This year, the theme was movies. Numerous games were played to carry out the theme such as "Guess That Movie Quote" and "Guess That Movie Theme Song." Three students from each grade sat at their designated table in the front of the gym and participated in the games. There was always a slight smile from a student when a familiar movie theme song started playing that they knew, like the Harry Potter theme song. Another student's face would light up when their favorite movie quote appeared on the screen before them, such as the famous Terminator quote, "I'll be back." It wasn't all about the movies. The theatre performed the "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" number from their upcoming musical "Mary Poppins." There was also the volleyball game where a group of teachers go up against homecoming court. Dives were taken and spikes were struck. By the end of a close game, the teachers ended up winning. Finally, the moment everyone has been waiting for: the football game. Many went to the chili supper that was held at Fifth Street Elementary. To some families, the chili supper is a tradition. Often times, it is a place where old friends bump into each other and talk for awhile. The game began at 7:30 p.m., but that did not stop students and Jasper Wildcat fans to fill the stadium beforehand. The Jasper marching band performed flawlessly while most took their seats. The student section, like always, was packed with students wearing hula skirts and Hawaii shirts to display the theme of the night: Hawaii. Jasper began strong, with a 7-0 score. Mt. Carmel soon caught up. Halfway through, they were tied 14-14. The Wildcats were far from giving up and letting Mt. Carmel win. The student section went crazy every time their team scored. Unfortunately, though the team tried their best, Jasper fell by one point. The final score was 27-28. Homecoming week wouldn't be complete without a homecoming king and queen! Color guard lined up on opposite sides of each other and created an aisle for homecoming couples to walk down. One by one, the couples came down the aisle. An announcement was given on each candidate. Once every couple was out, the moment came for the king and queen to be crowned. The homecoming king was Senior Evan Aders. The homecoming queen title went to other senior Anna Charron. The students, who at this time all lined up in front of the field to cheer for homecoming candidates, went wild. Though the Wildcats lost the game, it just made them stronger and closer, like most losses do. Who knows how many spirit points were given to each grade this past week. In the end, homecoming week was a success. There was no doubt that everyone went home with a smiles on their faces.

Digging Up a New Season

Story By: Laci Smith
August 19, 2016

The Varsity game started off with the National Anthem, sang by our very own freshman, Grace Truesdale. She was rather nervous at the beginning but still had fun singing the National Anthem and would like to do it again. The crowd gave her a roar of cheers and applause. Unfortunately, Princeton took the lead first. Luckily, Jasper caught up and reeled in more points. Both teams scrambled across their respective sides of the court to save the ball. Some succeeded and some did not. The crowd cheered the girls on for both teams. The Jasper ladies worked their butts off to get the lead over Princeton. The first match ended with Jasper winning. The second match started strong for the Princeton team. The Jasper girls tried their hardest to catch up, tying the score every so often. Senior, Alexa Stenftenagel (#7), and Junior, Katey Bell (#9), fell to the floor in an attempt to reach the ball. Junior, Libby Bell, number 3 made an amazing dig with one arm grazing the floor. Throughout the match Princeton slowly began to catch up and tied with Jasper. Everyone's nerves were frazzled by the final points of the game. Sophomore, Natalie Wigand (#12), dug the ball with her foot and saved a point from the Princeton team. Mrs. Milligan said that she was proud, but they could use some work with high hopes for the rest of the season.

In Just 270 Days

Story By: Mila Vernon
September 14, 2016

From June 12 to June 23, 2017, a group of students plan to travel to Greece through Jasper High School. This trip is in cooperation with the Jasper High School S.O.F.A. club, otherwise known as Society Of Fine Arts. Although S.O.F.A. plays a role in the trip, membership isn't required. On this alternative trip the students will visit landmarks in Athens, Delphi, Patras Ancona, Florence, Rome, Vatican City, and Sorrento. The trip is jam packed with guided tours and sightseeing at places such as the Temple of Olympian Zeus, the Olympic site, the Colosseum in Rome, the Sistine Chapel, and Pompeii. Visit www.Explorica.com/Dodd-9564, and follow the procedures to sign up for the trip. The teachers overseeing and planning the trip are Mrs. Fleck and Mr. Dodd who are both art teachers at Jasper High School. The cost of the trip covers "round-trip airfare, all transportation, sightseeing tours and site visits, on-tour tipping, all hotels with private bathroom, breakfast and dinner daily, full-time multi-lingual tour director" (Explorica). A fee increase will occur October 1, 2016. The students who plan on participating in the Greece trip have many fundraising opportunities to help with the cost of the trip. Last year students sold frozen pizzas and are currently selling bagels from Azura. This year the students plan on holding a S.O.F.A. Fun Run that will be held October 8 at nine o'clock in the morning at the Jasper River Walk. Sign up sheets for the S.O.F.A. Fun Run are located in Mr. Dodd's room. Pre-registration will be due by September 23, 2016. The S.O.F.A. club requests, but do not require, that an unopened package of crayons and/or markers be donated on race day for local pre-schools and elementary schools.

The Theory of Music

Story By: Allison Rogers
September 16, 2016

The study of the practices and possibilities of music. This is a class held during Ms. Burns' 7th period. The class is a small group of students who have interest in the inner workings of music. In the class students study aspects of music such as pitch rhythms, harmony, and form. This class is meant to help students who hope to compose music, understand how it works, and the relations of how people use music for a diversity of things. Most students currently in this class are in the band or musical theater class. Anyone with musical interest are welcome to join the class to better their knowledge on the topic. Music is important in infant development and is a great way for people to connect all around the world. People have different languages which can be difficult divisions to cross when it comes to comprehension, but music is a language of its own and can bring people together from all kinds of backgrounds, ethnicities, and personalities. Music has become an intricate part of our culture and our lives. Music is calming and soothing when you need it and upbeat and fun in other times. Music can be for remorse, remembering, and rejoicing. If you're thinking about classes for next year and have an interest in the arts or music this would be a great class to join!

Traffic Jam

Story By: Carly Vaught
September 21, 2016

Drivers and bus drivers alike were met with a rather interesting turn of events at the start of the school year. In the past, students were dropped off at the front entrance in the morning, while buses dropped students off on the north side of the school. Students that could drive themselves home at the end of the day by using the south side (on 15th street). The coming of the new year, however, brought a whole different traffic route with it. As summer came to a close and it was time to break out the notebooks and pencils for school, a newfound solution was brought up to fix the chaotic after school traffic. Starting the school year, students dropped off by their parents were to be dropped off by the band entrance on the east side. Since the beginning of the school year, however, this has been changed to them looping around the school to the north side. To mix it up, buses drop and pick kids up at the front entrance. This change in pace upset more than a few students and their parents, but it seems there are some upsides. "It's easier for people on bus, because it's easier to hear when your bus is being called," said bus rider Lukas Rogier, junior. After the general excitement over change died down, students began to realize that maybe the change was for the best considering the fact that the parking lot is relatively empty by 3:10PM.

Standing for a Cure

Story By: Angel Lee
October 11, 2016

For many, Leukemia is a very familiar word, more so for few. As the world continues to grow, cancer continues to be suppressed, but people are still affected worldwide. On Monday, October 3rd The Jasper High School and Forest Park volleyball teams organized a Leukemia night where they proudly wore white and the libero was adorned in a gray shirt. All girls had an orange ribbon strewn across their chests and strung in their hair. Forest Park, the opposing team were mirror images of the Jasper girls. Forest Park girls wore gray, their libero white with orange ribbons on their chests as well as their hair. To prepare for the night the girls painted pumpkins for people to bid on. The girls gathered in the community room to make their pumpkins stand out the most and attract donors. Each girl's pumpkin was unique and uncarved to avoid rotting. "The paint made it much less messy and actually a bit more fun. My hands didn't get as tired as they would've if I had carved it," Jocelynn Morrow, Junior, says with a laugh. The highest bidder would get to take the pumpkin home, and their money would be sent away to charity. Many of the pumpkins had different personalities, one even poised with a tiara and glitter. Right before the Varsity girls played, Justin Rottet made it to the middle of the floor with Riley Sample to serenade the many people who showed up. All of the volleyball players, including Forest Park gathered around the duet to hold hands and appreciate what they have. In the middle of the circle were parents, grandparents, children, and citizens adorning a "Survivor" or an "in memory of" red card around their necks to represent themselves or somebody they know that had been through the Leukemia hell. It was important for everybody to feel appreciative for what they have or what they have gone through.

Keeping it Real

Story By: Mila Vernon
October 13, 2016

On Wednesday, October 12, 2016, Jasper High School hosted an anti-bullying speaker Matt Hart. Hart, a teacher of 20 years, now speaks at schools all around Indiana. Hart has spoken at 85 schools total, but 60 schools just in the 2016-2017 school year. Hart, who had once been a victim of bullying himself, created a system for students who may be a victim of bullying. This system is called "reACT." The A in reACT stands for action, the C stands for call, and the T stands for tell. During his presentation Hart made a point of showing the characteristics that define a bully. To do so, Hart called three students down to interact with him. Junior Braydon Riley participated by making an angry face and moving his hands in a scratching motion. Senior Luis Lopez also came down to flex his muscles. This was meant to show a power imbalance. While the other two volunteers were random, the last volunteer was not. Senior Sparrow Gogel had a special surprise when she was called down to be the second volunteer. Hart explained that he called her down to celebrate her birthday. With a wide smile on her face, Sparrow Gogel celebrated her 18th birthday with the entire school. Hart kept the school enraptured with the song "Lunch Lady Land" by Adam Sandler and his great comedic timing. Throughout the presentation Hart kept it light, and he also "kept it real". Hart shared his own experience of bullying towards the end of his presentation. Just after he finished his story he ended with a rendition of the Imagine Dragons song "Radioactive." Hart joked that it made him feel like a professional when the whole gym joined in to sing with him.

Hittin' the TrapShack

Move over Spongebob fans; Super Weenie Hut Jr. is no longer solely a Spongebob reference. Just a little over a month ago in the middle of September, senior Zach Jones and juniors Max Otto and Nolan Harmon established a radio shift on the JHS "The Scratch" radio show. Their radio show centers around the rising Trap music genre. Collecting various musical influences on SoundCloud, Zach, Max, and Nolan create a new playlist weekly to preview on their show. Songs such as "Wicked" by Gris" and "Feels Like Home" by the Hymn have made recent appearances on the show. This radio trio works hand-in-hand with Radio/TV instructor Mr. Elrod's radio station, 93.7 The Scratch. Motivated to share their music, the trio looked for a viable outlet to spread their musical tastes; thus, TrapShack was born. Zach Jones jocularly recounts another reason for the creation of their radio show, saying, "Ping Pong club costs $10 and we're all broke." Aside from the show's evident humorous hosts, they look forward to learning additional tricks of the trade concerning operating a radio show. Taking listeners' calls is next on their list of things to learn. Mr. Elrod offers a bit of wise advice, cautioning the boys to "never take live calls. You never know what you'll get on the other line." To discover additional music streaming from the TrapShack, visit the show's account on SoundCloud, endearingly named "SuperWeenieHutJr". To learn more about Jasper High School's 93.7 the Scratch, visit Scratchradio.org.

El Dia de Los Muertos

Story By: Rhegann Weisheit

November 9, 2016

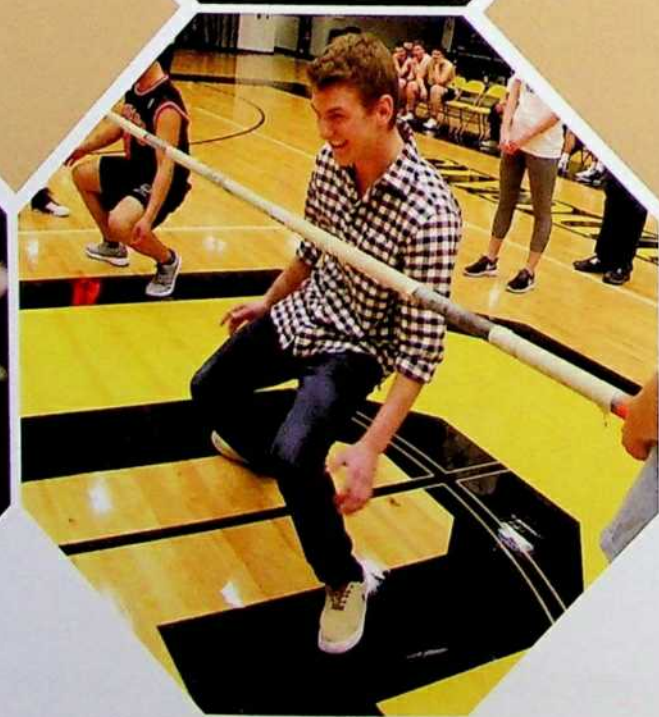

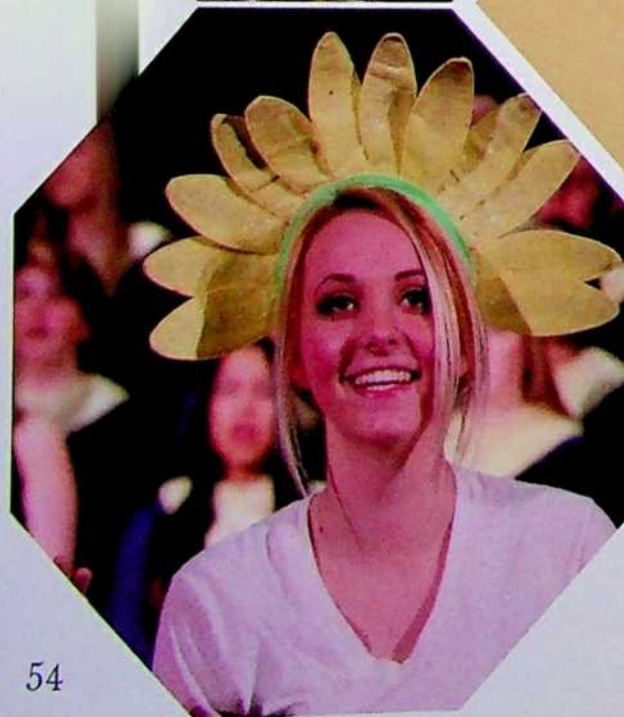

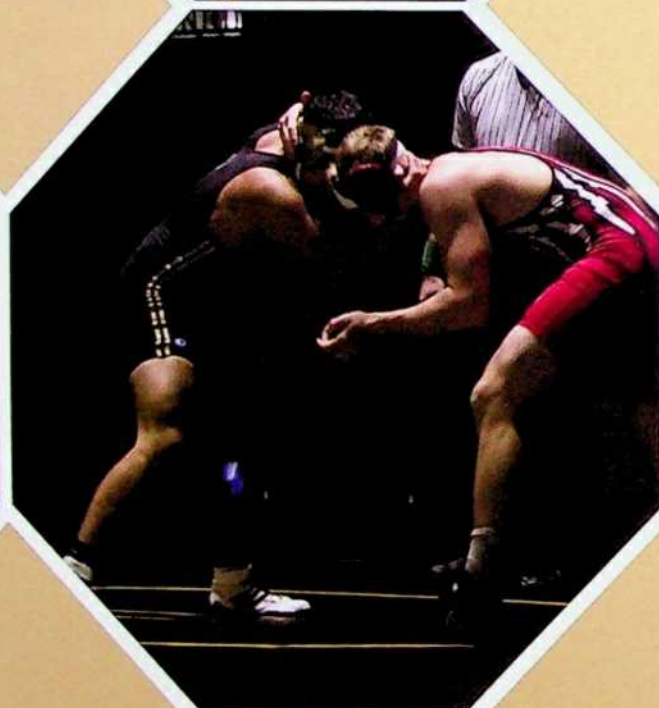

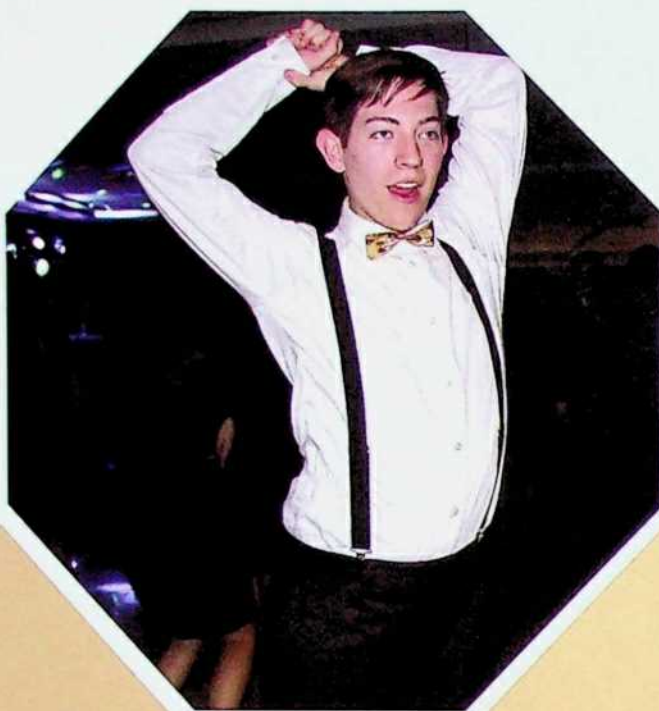

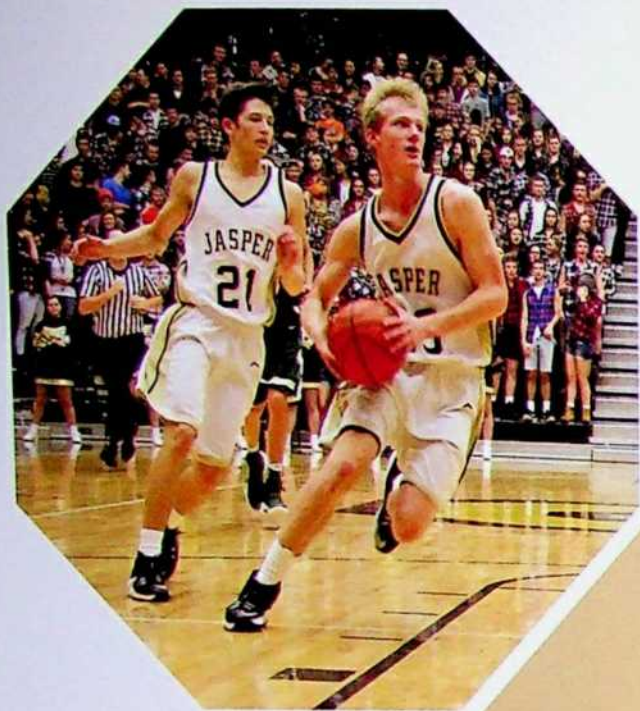

This year on November 1, the Spanish club got together and in celebration of El Dia de Los Muertos and painted pumpkins to represent what the Day of the Dead means to them. Dia de Los Muertos is a celebration of the souls that have gone before us, and celebrated primarily in Mexico and parts of Central America. Some people have even begun to spread the traditions to our hometown of Jasper, Indiana. Along with the pumpkin painting party, all day Spanish classes dined and celebrated with traditional Mexican foods and drinks. This celebration takes place every year, and students of Jasper High School just go through the motions, but what does Dia de Los Muertos really mean to some people?

"To me personally, I think it is a beautiful way to celebrate the life that was and the life that is, and to be thankful for that."

Mrs. Johnson shared her views and thoughts about what Dia de Los Muertos means to her. Not only do the Spanish teachers find interest in this holiday but just regular students find it enticing also, "It's appealing that they accept death as a part of life." Grace Harmon first discovered Dia de Los Muertos in her 8th grade Spanish class. But, there are some who have been celebrating this holiday their entire life. Junior Kimberly Aleman shares how her family celebrates Dia de Los Muertos, "We decorate their graves and make Tamales and bread for the family that stays at the house or the people that do not go to the grave so that they can have food at home." After all of her years of experience, she has come to terms that to her, Dia de Los Muertos means to embrace life rather than someone or yourself.

To memorialize what was good, bad, funny, and serious of that person. "No one will be entirely perfect for you, but they are family whether you were their best friend or someone special, you are always included no matter if you are blood or not." Dia de Los Muertos is not just about the food people get in Spanish class, or the crazy costumes seen on line, but it is about family. Dead or alive, blood or not, we are all family.

Winter

"DON'T BE LAME"

On Saturday, January 21 Jasper High School held their winter formal, also known as the Snowball Dance. This winter themed dance boasted a DJ, concessions, and a great atmosphere. The dance is hosted by the student council, who organizes everything from snacks to the DJ. From the very beginning of the dance was a hit although many did not immediately want to dance. Senior Jody James yelled "If you don't dance, you're lame," in a joking manner, which quickly broke the ice. This year the dance was a bit more fun than previous years. Just one example of this was when freshman Danny Gallardo brought a box of Cheez-Its as his date, and then proceeded to dance with the snack box. The Snowball Dance has become a staple in Jasper High School, and is always held the Saturday after basketball homecoming. This year's homecoming queen and king were Madison Weidenbenner and Kyle Hollinden. The homecoming court this year was: freshmen Kennedy Begle and Colin Cassidy, Abby Gubbins and Avery Hollinden, sophomores Ally Miley and Nick Hodell, Brynn Leinenbach and Jack Bies, juniors Libby Bell and Chris Backer, Avery Himself and Harrison Land, and seniors Seth Hill and Reagan Otto, Blake Leinenbach and Sydney Traylor, and Kyle Hollinden and Madison Weidenbenner (more about the homecoming winners on pages 70 and 71).

Halftime of a Lifetime

It's no surprise that the JHS Dance Team made it to the state competitions this year, but was a surprise was their first ever "surprise" halftime performance at the "Jasper VS Southridge game. On Saturday, January 14, the Jasper dance team and Southridge cheerleaders put on the halftime performance of a lifetime. Opening the halftime show was the Jasper cheerleaders along with the next generation cheerleaders showing their school spirit by helping the high school team cheer on their classmates and get the crowd pumped up for the second half of the game. Once they had finished their routine, the Southridge and Jasper dance teams came to show what they can do with the help of seniors Kyle Hollinden, Carson Pierce, and Seth Hill. The Jasper vs. Southridge game raised over $1,000 to build a house in April for a single mom and two children. "I just really like helping others! It was a very humbling experience" Senior Kyle Hollinden enthuses. Kyle has always wanted to dance with the dance team and finally got the opportunity to do so with his long time friend Emma Grow. Emma has been on the dance team all four years of high school, and never have they done anything like this. "It was a good experience because it was something we have never done before and to come together to help the less fortunate is something good to come out of a dance instead of just the entertainment factor."

Now in its second year, Knitting Club has been a group that gathers for some fun and creative knitting to make different and useful thread work. When they meet, club members like to knit hats, socks, scarves, mittens, and any other creative piece of clothing. Knitting can be a relaxing way to wind down and just focus on a single task. Knitting helps people find a creative outlet for some peace and quiet. Club members are students that either had prior knowledge in the art of knitting and joined or are students who had no idea how to knit and wanted to learn how. "We got to knit and ate donuts, we had a great year" stated senior Danielle Buechlein at their meeting for the clubs group photo.

Volume Pumped UP

It takes a lot of school spirit to come to every home varsity boys basketball game, but that is exactly what the pep band is made for. The Pep Band is compiled of dedicated students from each grade that are either in Symphonic Band and/or Concert Band. Arriving before the big game even starts, the pep band prepares to keep the crowd interested and pumped up. With a variety of songs, including "Final Countdown", "Sweet Caroline" (a classic that every one knows,) and of course the Jasper High School fight song, the pep band spends the two to three hours of a game playing their hearts out to everyone in the gymnasium, never letting there be a tedious moment throughout it all.

Sophomore Vince Obermeyer performed a solo at the Jazz & Choir concert. Obermeyer, along with seven other students, received Outstanding Solo Award on the tenor sax and clarinet at the ISSMA Jazz Contest in Whiteland.

Let's Get Jazzy

It isn't every year that the JHS Jazz Band makes the ISSMA State Finals, but there is always room for change. With only their second time making it to the finals, members were ready to pave the way to North Central High School with confidence. Jazz qualified for the ISSMA State Jazz Finals by receiving one of the highest scores in the state on March 4th at the ISSMA Jazz Contest at Whiteland High School. Jasper High School is one of the smallest schools in Indiana to make the jazz state finals. Jasper is also the only state finalist to only have one jazz band. To say the least, the Jasper Jazz Band is one in a million. "The Jazz band loves to have an audience when performing. "When we performed at Ball State, there was maybe 5 people in the audience," laughs Jazz band director Mr. Keeley, "It's more fun to perform with a crowd of fans and supporters. Most of that audience was Mandi Shields' family...and Zach Jones' family...and my wife. That was completely it."

German

This year the German club's activities remained mellow in anticipation for the exchange trip to Germany. During the school year the students held chocolate sales, hosted exchange students twice, learned about German history and culture, and they also worked at a booth at Strassenfest. During the summer juniors in the German club were given the opportunity to host and then stay in Germany. After the juniors arrived in Germany they stayed in hostels and with their host families all throughout the country. The students visited Staufen, Pöbneck, Munich, Berlin, Frankfurt, Dresden, and Jena in the span of a month.

This year the Spanish Club held multiple activities bringing laughter and some great memories into the school. From simple piñata parties, to a beautiful ballet this years Spanish Club had a new experience at every single meeting. One of the most memorable moments this year was the annual trip to Los Bravos where the entire Spanish Club got together for a Cinco De Mayo celebration for some authentic tasting food.

Asian Fusion

Asian Culture Club a.k.a Asian Fusion was formed this year by Allison Rogers and Kayla Thimling. The club is comprised of students interested in all things Asian, including music, food, movies, culture, and language. With teachers Mr. Rottet and Mrs. Henson overseeing the club, students had a chance to learn about countries such as South Korea, Japan, China, Thailand, and more. Trying out a variety of snacks and foods from these countries enabled the students to understand these cultures more.

Life Skills

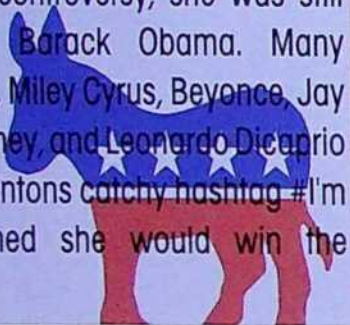

Life skills is a class that helps students learn to do daily tasks, as well as teach the students about life outside school. Students involved in this class take trips to Walmart where they purchase groceries, they visited Mrs. Ruxers cabin on a local lake, had an agricultural day where they plant plants, and they also visited Holiday World. Life skills is a class that teaches "students basic skills development through a functioned life skills curriculum. Learn skills needed to be successful, contributing adults," stated Mr. Stenftenagel.

Hillary Clinton VS Donald Trump

In 2016, former First Lady, senator of New York, and U.S. Secretary of State, Hillary Clinton ran for U.S. presidency and proceeded to become the democratic nominee. Her campaign proceeded to be surrounded by controversy with her email scandal, which was later investigated and cleared by the FBI during the race. Although she had controversy, she was still endorsed by President Barack Obama. Many celebrities like Lady Gaga, Miley Cyrus, Beyonce, Jay Z, Katy Perry, George Clooney, and Leonardo DiCaprio endorsed Clinton. With Clintons catchy hashtag #I'm with Her, many assumed she would win the presidency.

290

When business man and reality star Donald Trump first announced his candidacy, people assumed that it was a joke. In fact, he was the subject of many memes that took over the internet. But, as time went on Trump stayed as many other candidates lost until Trump became the Republican nominee. Although his entire campaign was surrounded in controversy (the leaked audio, his comments about women, and Melania Trump's plagiarize speech), many continued to loyally follow Trump. Celebrities like Hulk Hogan, Tom Brady, Dennis Rodman, and Gary Busey supported Trump.

"I'd say Hillary Clinton just because Donald Trump sometimes is a little controversial."

Suchi Bandaru (09)

"Because he's awesome. He's the best person for the job because of his economic policies."

Amber Leinenbach (11)

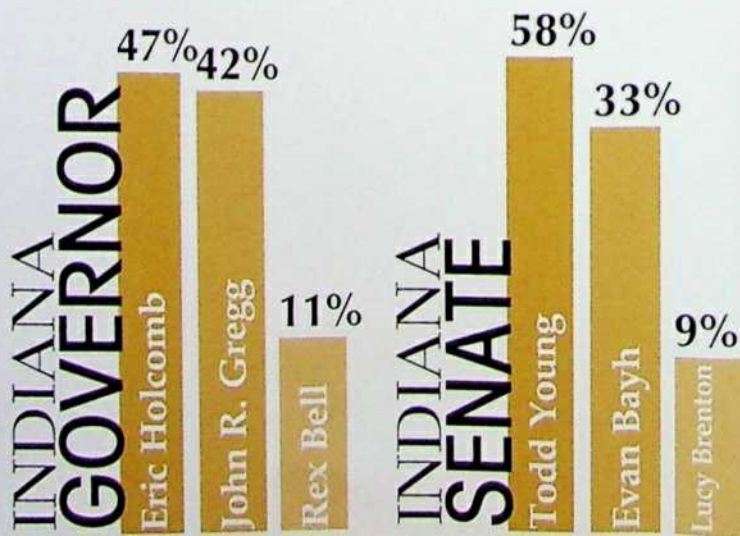

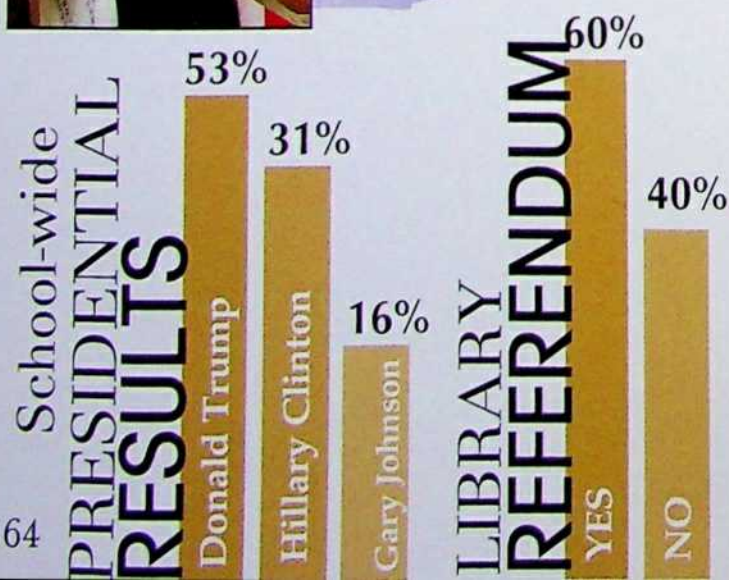

"I like how she is. She cares about people. She just knows what she's doing, and she cares about other people and how their life is. [And] she wants everyone to support one another"

Mayra Fehlberg (09)

"I would vote for Donald Trump, because even though I don't agree with his views personally, I think it's really important for a Republican to become president so that Republicans keep the house and the majority."

This year the Jasper High School Theater put on "The Snow Queen" as their winter show. This show is a lot like Frozen and written by the same producers as Frozen. The show was a lot of fun due to it being a play rather than a musical. It gave the students time to work on their acting skills rather than musical skills. The show was cute and cheesy, where the students were able to pull costumes together from their homes, left overs from past shows, and even thrift stores. "It was a nice change instead of the usual winter musical," remarked several cast members. Many of the actors made many comments on how they enjoyed being relaxed and funny with the show. "It was fun to be able to be sisters in the show with my close friend Ashley," said junior Kylie Schweikarth.

Lumberjacks and Comebacks

Getting ready for the basketball homecoming is no joke. Everyone that was nominated and the crowners were standing in line waiting for their name to be announced and have their photo taken. After all the the names were called every one waited to see who would win. Jasper Wildcats pulled through a tough fight at Friday's (January 20) boys varsity basketball game. Following the much awaited for homecoming, where seniors Kyle Hollinden and Madison Weidenbenner were crowned king and queen, the crowd changed courses and focused on the night's varsity game. With the Wildcats decked out in their lumberjack attire (the night's theme) the battle against Forest Park began. Jasper didn't start out on top, with the Rangers taking a 10 point lead. It seemed that every time Jasper go a hold of the ball, it disappeared into the other team's hands. But that didn't let Jasper's hopes for the night be dashed. The student section that flooded students continued to cheer for the varsity boys, pushing them to try their hardest, and of course, tried to distract the other side with their screams. By the end of the 2nd period, Jasper began to make a comeback, and quickly, and tied with Forest Park. A short break that the cheerleaders used to get the crowd pumped up was all the boys needed to get a game plan. Just a couple minutes into the third period allowed Jasper to gain the lead, 39 to 36. Though Forest Park's s minuscule student section booed, the negativity was never heard thanks to Jasper's cheers of encouragement. By the end of the third period, Jasper was still in the lead and by the end of the game, the Jasper boys varsity won with a score of 57 to 46. It was a surprise for some, considering that in the beginning, the Wildcats were 10 points behind. However, it was never too late for the boys to make a striking comeback.

The lady Wildcats varsity basketball team pushed through some struggles this season, but also had fun by making memories and bonding with their fellow team mates. At one time in all of our lives, joining a sport was to have fun and make new friends, not only about winning and losing. For the girls varsity basketball team they enjoyed the sport just as much through having pre game dance parties, "the greatest thing I have ever witnessed" as a senior player described. It is also about improving and handing down knowledge from the older players. This year they get to hand down a lot of knowledge, as half the team is graduating this year. The special JHS awards went to freshman Claire Knies who won All Conference and MVP this year. The Mental Attitude went to senior Lindsey Leinenbach, and the Most Improved went to senior Maria Gobert. The girls ended the season on a high note and will keep bonding through camps until the next season comes.

What is your most challinging moment this year?

"Learning to play as a team. Overcoming our weaknesses using our strengths to our advantages."

The Jasper Junior Varsity Girls Basketball team ended dominant 2016-17 campaign with a record of 20 wins and 1 loss. Only 2 of the 20 wins were less than 10 points. The JV Lady Cats out scored their opponents an average of 46 to 29 points per game. They had 9 assists per game and 12 steals per game. They also shot 345 free throws for the season. The JV Lady Cats were led in scoring and assists by Kortney Ruhe, Reagan Egbert in steals and Rachel Gress and Reagan Egbert in Rebounding. Rylee Hedinger led the team in defensive efficiency. The Basketball future for these JV Cats is looking good!

Despite a brief season of only four matches, the team's quaint number of six players provided the rare opportunity for intimate bonding to craft a team chemistry often hard to find and one to be especially remembered by coach Meagan Sternburg as her last year with the title of Freshman Coach. Freshman athlete, Isabelle Blazey, recounts the Evansville Memorial match the night of January 26 as memorable due to the Lady Wildcats being outnumbered 12-6. Despite Memorial's doubled number of players, the Wildcats stole a victory of 29-15. Following the victory, the team celebrated with trophy food from Chick-fil-A and expelled their energies with upbeat music emanating from the open windows of the Wildcats' bus on the return drive.

Flipping the Odds

Twelve girls, nine wins, one broken record, and one big night. This years girls swimming and diving team has had an uphill battle from the very beginning. With limited numbers, the girls saw no chance at winning a sectional title. After hours of practices and miles of swimming, the day for sectional finally arrived and the nerves were through the roof. That Saturday, the team got to the pool at 11:30 and blasted music through their speakers, losing the nerves that were harbored in their minds. After 3 hours of anticipation, the results were finally in and the girls had just won another sectional title. Tears flowed from everyone's eyes, the swimmers, the parents, and even the coaches. The Jasper Swimming and Diving team had just pulled the most amazing Sectional win, for the tenth year in a row.

What motivated you throughout the Season?

"The uphill battle we constantly faced. We didn't quite have the numbers, but we had the talent, and I think for all of us that was our main drive in wanting to succeed."

In With the New (Records)

Number three on the podium, but number one in our hearts. This year the boys swimming and diving team may have placed third in sectionals this year, but they achieved great milestones while fighting for that spot. Going into sectionals the boys were seated fourth behind Heritage Hills, Pike Central, and Bedford North Lawrence, but worked their way up, shimmying past Heritage Hills, and into third place. The boys team made great achievements that night breaking two records. The men's 200 free relay record had not been broken in thirty years, but this year senior Matt Head, juniors Max and Nolan Henke, and sophomore Jason Fleck broke the unbreakable record, despite what their coach had told them at the beginning of the season. Not only was the old time record broken, but also a newly broken record. The 100 yard butterfly record that was broken just last year has been broken again. Sophomore Jason Fleck not only broke the 100 fly record at sectionals, but also at state the following weekend. The screams of the fans were deafening throughout the natatorium, coming to a roar during the events and a cricket when scores were announced. This year may not have been the year of champions but definitely a year for achievements.

The Sound of Victory

Wins: 17 Losses: 7

The addictive taste of victory, success, comes in two parts: the perspicacity to achieve victory and the ease of celebration. Funneling the tension of gameplay into teasing antics acts as the vital weight to balancing the talents and mentality of a thriving sports team. With victories in hand, the boys Varsity team achieved one of the best regular season records in JHS history of 17-7, surpassing even the most admirable prospects of JHS basketball enthusiasts. With the grit accounted for, senior Elliot Prange recounts the memories of jovial celebration within the team. Following each victory, the boys proceeded to host dance parties within the locker room coupled with a disco provided by senior Johnny Bounds. While music sets permanence to the sweetness of memories, Prange dubs the Washington game in the first round of Sectionals as his most cherished memory, recalling the passionate ardor for which both teams played but ultimately resulting in the Wildcats' victory leading them to their second and final round of sectionals against Pike Central.

What is a memorable song or phrase unique to this team?

It was the last game of the JV season where the boys fought their hardest against North Daviess. Though the season may have had more losses than wins, the fact did not daunt the team one bit. Against the North Daviess team, Jasper was the star. The growing student section roared with anticipation for not only the varsity game that followed, but for the JV team that was on the verge of winning their final game. N. Daviess stole the ball, but only for a second, their nervous fingers had no match against Jasper's quick hands. Jasper won 43 to 25. The season may not have been completely flawless in the end or in the eyes of many fans, but the last game of the season was what defined the boys most as a team

FROSHES AND TOSSES

Throughout the season the Freshman Boys Basketball has taken many wins and very few losses. They ended a successful campaign of 16 wins and 5 losses. The boys have truly exceeded the even the coaching staff's expectations. During games with other schools, the games would end up being neck to neck in scores with each other. Family members and peers would get together and try their best to yell the loudest and proudest in order to help them take home the win. Although the season was only a few months, the boys felt as if it flew by too fast. In the end, the boys grew a bond that could possibly carry on to the next level of JHS basketball.

Minute to Pin It

The Jasper High School boys wrestling team faced many hardships this season. They have come together this year with more than half of the team graduating in 2017. With the experience from the seniors on the varsity squad it is not hard for all of them to be a well rounded team on what to do, and how to do it. The wrestlers spend a lot of time together making a bond most sports don't get to make. The guys work as one when they are practicing hard everyday, all of them wanting to achieve the same goal. They cheer and support each other in the practice room on the mats.

The boys are not the only ones who cheer each other on, one of their coaches Sean Brescher tell the boys that "if you put crap in your body then that is how you are going to preform on the mat." Food is a major consideration for the guys, because if they're over weight the day before a meet they can not eat at all and it can be pretty stressful. Our wildcats are facing their fears and over coming them, when they walk out to the middle of the mat with everybody watching and having their expectations all come down to having to pin one guy. It is also the part when the guys get to show off all their hard work.

"What is you favorite memory with the team?"

Going down to Brown County and eating at Golden Coral.

Features

WildcatWeekly is the student-run news website, a product of the Interactive Media class.

Although it would be wonderful to have every story that appeared on the website in the yearbook, we only have so much space.

Throughout the book, there will be numerous stories that the students have published on the site throughout this school year. We hope you enjoy this look back.

Up and Over the Pond

Story By: Angel Lee
December 1, 2016

Flying up and down, under and over the entire world is a dream for many. Although, for few, it is certainly a dream come true. The German Exchange program has been an excellent program for students in Germany wishing to mix with American students. This year's students of Jasper High School opened their arms to students from places including Germany, Spain, and even Denmark. There are different types of exchanges, some students staying for a quick two weeks, others for a semester, and even some for a full school year. Most of the students that come to Jasper have already finished school. Current Jasper High School Junior, Nina Cauß, is just 16 years old and has completed her high school education. Nina says she, "felt the need to travel and see everything." Other students, like Junior Fabian Warner, say it was the "push from parents" that brought him to the Land of the Free. Both Nina and Fabian are making the most of their visit in Jasper until the semester comes to a melancholic close in December. The German Exchange program is an amazing opportunity for people around the world to come together and bond over similar and different interests. Other students, like Junior Jakob Leuther, had only stayed for two short weeks. The students who enjoyed the quick trip to Jasper left the building on Tuesday, October 2nd. The foreign students flew out of Louisville Airport and made their separate ways back home. "I don't really like the food too much," says Jakob, "but, I do really like the school. It's a lot more fun compared to in Germany." Although, Nina reveals that she "... absolutely loves the food. The portions are much larger, so I get to eat more." To give the exchange students a real experience, and also a taste of home, they engaged in activities like going to local festivals, enjoying time together in groups, as well as their host families introducing them to new things. The German exchange students even went to a popcorn fest to look at the intricate ways on how to make and bag popcorn. Many of the Jasper students have bonded so closely with the Germans, that they often have a very difficult time saying goodbye. Junior, Judge Maravich, says that he always gets too close to the students. Considering his mother is the Jasper High School German teacher, that is understandable. Judge gets the amazing opportunity to meet and spend significant amounts of time with all of the exchange students, and form essential bonds with the kids from across the pond. Judge gets the unique opportunity to spend one on one time with many of the teens. He and his mother were the host family for Jakob Leuther, who recently flew home. The German Exchange program is an outstanding opportunity to engage with people who you normally would not be able to. The Germans are also able to share their experiences with Jasper students. Many of them, including Junior Moira Fray are fluent in multiple languages. Many of the students who travel to America have also visited multiple countries and share their interesting stories with students who have not. The German Exchange has been an extremely beneficial program. Many students have been able to make new lifelong friends and memories. There is nothing more special to people around the world than to exchange their experiences with each other.

Board of Love

Story By: Allison Rogers
December 16, 2016

December 16, 2016 a large chalkboard with a diamond shaped, gold-rimmed mirror appeared in the lunchroom by the stage. Many may be wondering what this is for and who made it. GSA has been working on a project to display for the whole school to interact and take part in. Many members of GSA feel that others are left out and feel like they wouldn't have a place in GSA when in fact the club is for everyone. So they decided to make a board to include all students and the perfect time to reveal it is during the holidays. The board will remain all year and the question on it will change throughout the rest of school. As of now the question to be answered is "What is your favorite part of the holidays?". Students were encouraged to approach the board and write in white chalk their answers. Many put words such as "Food, family, Christmas lights, warm blankets, snow, coffee, friends, cookies, pie, books" and much more. The board is meant to be a place of reflection and thought for students. The mirror in the center allows them to walk up and see themselves either for pure amusement or to find an answer within themselves, whatever they prefer. With the semester coming to a close and finals right around the corner it can be incredibly stressful with studying which can make it hard to get into the holiday spirit. The board gives a nice feeling in everyone to see a spot they can visit and contribute their own personal holiday favorites too or just view everyone else's and see what people are saying. It's a pleasant reminder that the holiday spirit lives and that people may have the same favorites as you. The holidays are for connecting, reminiscing, and opening our hearts, so right now the GSA board is a great location for this. Stop by during a passing period or during lunch to add your own piece or to check out others! Spread the love!

Over 3

Story By: Laci Smith
January 4, 2017

The girls Jasper High School varsity basketball team faced Barr Reeve last night at 7:30. The Jasper girls did not come at out flat in the first quarter, with Barr Reeve in the lead. Toward the end of second quarter the Jasper Wildcats caught up and tied the game. Slowly coming into the fourth quarter, the Jasper team trailed Barr Reeve by a few points. When it got down to the last minute in the game the Jasper girls scored a two pointer tying the game, 47 to 47. Thus, making the game roll over into overtime. With an additional 4 minutes added to the clock, Barr Reeve took the lead again. The game got even more intense with both teams committing numerous fouls. At the end of the first overtime, the game was tied again, 50 to 50, forcing the game into double over time. The referees added 4 more minutes to the clock, with Jasper taking the lead by three points thanks to number 15, senior Anna Charron scoring a three pointer. When asked how it felt to score a lot of three throws tonight, she replied, "It was just the time to step up and take the shot". The Jasper girls stayed in the lead till Barr Reeve caught up with the last few minutes. Barr Reeve tied with Jasper, 59 to 59, making the game go into triple over time. With an added 4 minutes to the score board, the audience sat on the edge of their seats in anticipation. Barr Reeve started out strong and quickly took over the court, with Jasper running to keep up. Sadly the Jasper girls could not hold out any longer and lost the game to Barr Reeve making the final score for Jasper 64 and Barr Reeve 68. Senior Maria Gobert said, "Going into triple over time rarely happens and, yeah, it sucks to lose, but it was a good experience."

Halftime of a Lifetime Story By: Rhegann Weisheit January 23, 2017

On Saturday, January 14, the Jasper dance team and Southridge cheerleaders put on the halftime performance of a lifetime. Opening the halftime show was the Jasper cheerleaders along with the next generation cheerleaders showing their school spirit by helping the high school team cheer on their classmates and get the crowd pumped up for the second half of the game. Once they had finished their routine, the Southridge and Jasper dance teams came to show what they can do with the help of seniors Kyle Hollinden, Carson Pierce, and Seth Hill. Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit organization, that donates the money they earn from fundraisers and donations to building homes from families in need. The Jasper vs. Southridge game raised over $1,000 to build a house in April for a single mom and two children. "I just really like helping others!" Senior Kyle Hollinden enthuses. Hollinden has worked a lot with community service and this experience was very humbling for him, having someone else come and ask him to help other people in need was an unforgettable moment for him. That did not take away any of the fun, though, Kyle has always wanted to dance with the dance team and finally got the opportunity to do so with his long time friend Emma Grow. Emma has been on the dance team all four years of high school, and never have they done anything like this. "It was a good experience because it was something we have never done before and to come together to help the less fortunate is something good to come out of a dance instead of just the entertainment factor." Both Kyle and Emma agree that they hope the dance team continues this fundraiser and even hopes they can face off against other schools in hopes of raising money for other organizations. It was a booster for both the schools and the community.

On January 25th, Christine Schmitt came to Jasper to speak about the tragedy that struck when her twelve year old daughter committed suicide. "Words have the ability to bring life into people. But it also has the ability to take that life away," says Schmitt. Morgan was cyberbullied by not only her peers, but by people she didn't even know. "There is always help and there is always hope. Suicide is never the option." Morgan's favorite color was purple, and, in memory of her daughter, Christine wears a lot of purple. Just like everyone, Morgan had a bucket list. On this bucket list she wanted to, grow a mustache, go to prom, kiss a boy, and get a tattoo. She constantly screenshot pictures of tattoos that she wanted. One of the tattoo screenshots, Christine ended up getting on her wrist. "Don't ever let a bad moment or a bad experience determine that you have a bad life." On April 6, 2014 while Morgan's family was away at church, she took her life. Morgan left an eleven page note for her family. On the first page, she addressed her mother and father, saying that she loved them very much and that they did all that they could. "I [Christine] was nowhere close to doing all that I could, because I didn't know." Christine noticed how differently her daughter's behavior was leading up to her passing. Her behavior consisted of nervous habits. On Morgan's bucket list, she had "grow nails out" because she was always biting her nails. Morgan constantly had bad headaches, she was always trying to stay busy to out run her mind, and she had a strange nervous laugh. These are different symptoms of high anxiety and depression. If you see any of these symptoms in a loved one or friend, contact the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-TALK(8255). You can also visit Christine's website It's All Love, Only Love Coalition for additional information about about her organization.

New Dog in the Halls

Story By: Alex Foster
January 31, 2017

This past year Jasper High School has slowly started introducing the use of comfort dogs. Students are pretty used to Peanut and Sarina, but lately there's been a new dog roaming around. Atticus is a three-year-old Bernese Mountain Dog who has been coming to school Mondays and Fridays. Mr. Hohl brought him in about a week before finals and students loved him right away. Some students were cautious of the giant dog, but quickly learned all he wants is to be played with and rubbed on. Atticus enjoys doing many things besides being in school such as eating as many veggies as he can, playing in the snow, and sleeping. Atticus being the giant new dog has caught the attention of most students. Everyone wants some time to play with him. While at school Atticus really enjoys all the attention he receives and how much he gets to play. Throughout the day students will walk him around and take him outside so he can release all of his bottled up energy. Students usually walk him around when they need some space from the classroom. This gives them time to breathe and clear their heads so they can come back feeling a little more relaxed. Because Atticus is a large dog, sometimes you can see him sprinting down the halls running from his handlers. He's a little 'wild' for a comfort dog, but the students like it. Atticus is energetic in the classroom and makes everything very exciting. Mr. Hohl can be standing still and the next moment he starts to walk, Atticus thinks it's time to play. He also likes to walk around the room to students who will give him the attention he wants. Of course, he likes to hide behind Mr. Hohls desk and sleep for awhile. A day at school can be exhausting for a dog.

Kill the Pig!

Story By: Rhegann Weisheit
February 28, 2017

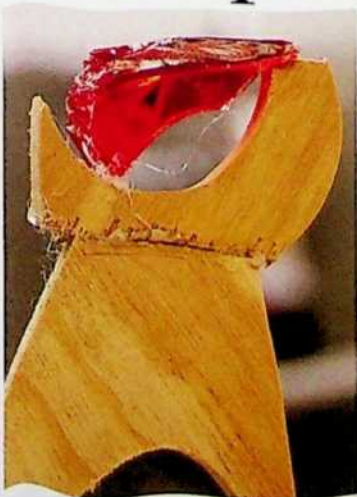

Out with the frogs, the pigs have come to conquer the Jasper High School dissection team. This year Mr. Helming's Advanced Life Science class asked senior Connor Bowlin and junior Jared Schwenk if they would be willing to offer one of their pigs for the study of science. Day one was the boring stuff, day two is when the live action started. To start the day off, the organs had to come out of the pig and with some help from FFA members Mr. Helming's classes were able to begin their studying. While identify different organs Mr. Helming wanted to give a live demonstration of how lungs inflate, even without an air pump. So, using just his mouth, Mr. Helming gave the students a show of mouth to lung resuscitation. All throughout the school week students could go to the back of the school and learn all about pigs and literally make some bacon, or to the front of the school and see some of the cleanest, dirtiest, and most useful trucks around.

Even on Friday, there was still food cooking in the back and some of the biggest tractors around town. FFA week had more to offer this year than any other, whether that be learning about the anatomy of pigs, or trucks and tractors. Everyone had a place to go and get some knowledge about Jasper's thriving ag program.

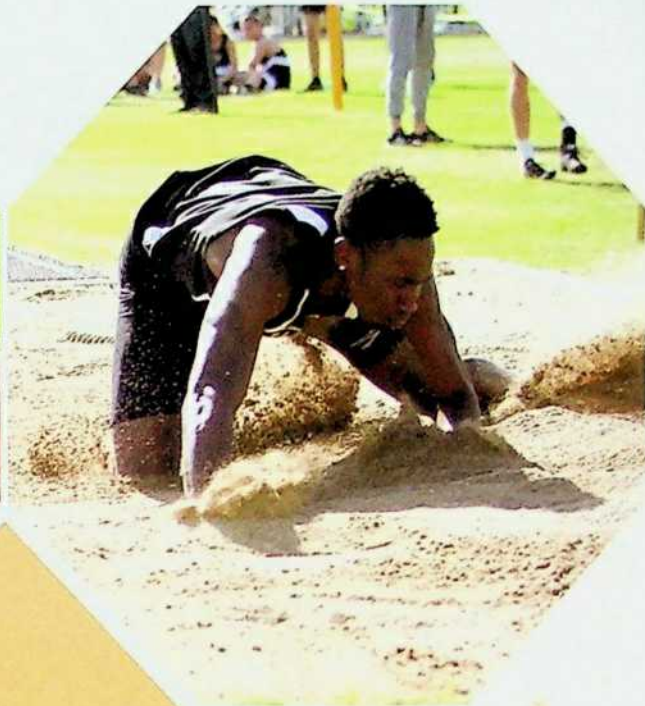

The Splintery Abstract

Story By: Kayla Thimling
February 28, 2017

All too often, 'the abstract' weasels its way into our lives. Through our mindless fogs, ambiguous answers to questions we don't know, and the déjà vu moments that leave us scratching our heads in befuddled perplexion. Abstractism is prevalent in many crafts of nature. Heeding this realization, the current project of JHS's sculpture class has moved beyond wire sculpture into the field of the abstract. Utilizing wood as the parent material in the project's design, students are in the midst of creating their personalized interpretations of abstractism. While the focal point of the project centers around wooden materials, students are encouraged to use "found objects". Found objects are items that can be found around common areas such as work stations, living areas, and public spaces. The one cardinal rule to using such pedestrian items is to morph the item into a new interpretation that obscures its original use. Using wood and hot glue, items are applied to the project base. Following the construction of the project, students will paint their creation a single color as to create a sense of uniformity that draws in the abstractism elements.

Academic Bowl

Knowledge is everything, especially when it comes to competing on the Academic Bowl team. With large amounts of studying early in the morning before school, the team prepared for competition with topics different from years before. Competing in every subject from English to Science, the team gave it their all, and all the hard work paid off in the end. With all the time spent together, not only did the team learn a great deal of new facts, but also learned new things about each other and formed bonds that will always be remembered.

FCA

Fellowship Christian Athletes, a club that is large and loved, and not just because of the donuts. Every other week FCA brings in a guest speaker that talks about their faith and how Christ has impacted their life. They even had the football coach from IU come in and speak. The members are very dedicated, as it is not common for high schoolers to come to school at 7:30 in the morning to talk about their faith. The club is non-denominational, and although the club name has the word "Athletes" they would not discriminate against those who are not.

What is your favorite memory from FCA?

"My favorite memory would have to be when we had a nonbeliever join us and actually got them to pray with us."

~Ashley Hale

Business Professionals of America had a spectacular year, sending 60 of their 92 members on to state competition. This year marks Indiana's 50 anniversary with the club, and as such the club is ramping up the excitement at the district and state competitions. Even more impressive, the chapter sent 18 on to Orlando for the National competition. Several of those teams and individuals were even called up to the stage at Disney, a rewarding honor for hard work throughout the year. Another major milestone in the JHS chapter was that Amber Leinenbach won the same position that her fellow chapter member, Gillian Blessinger, held for the past year, VP of Communications.

Everyone assumes that FFA stands for "Future Farmers of America." However, in 1988, FFA changed from its original name to being described as a "national organization that is agriculturally based." FFA takes gracious measures to help its members strengthen themselves in leadership, personal growth, and career success. Mr. Helming, who teaches all the agriculture classes in JHS (an example being plant and soil science) is also the teacher in charge of the FFA Organization here at school. FFA has been around and in JHS since the 1960s. "It was big in the 60s," says Helming, "membership levels went down over the years, but now we are growing big again." In FFA, there are numerous contests that students participate in. Two contests is known as

CDE and the leadership contests. CDE stands for "Career Development Event." There are many categories in CDE, two of them being soils and forestry. "There are hundreds of categories within the leadership contest," laughs Helming, "it would be difficult to name all of them." Throughout the year, students sell meat sticks and flowers to help raise money for their organization. "It think it's important for students to know about agriculture," state Helming. "It shapes the way we live in every way."

Supermilage: The supermilage team of motorsports worked very diligently this season preparing to build a new car for the high milage competition. Unfortunately by the end of the season the team realized they would not be able to finish their car in time, so they put their efforts into tuning up their old car. The parts that needed to be changed to adhere to the competition rules altered the front alignment but, tragically this was enough to skin off one of their tires after their third run in competition. The team averaged 300 miles to the gallon this year. Although there were some unforeseen circumstances the team is hoping for a big win next year.

Formula: The formula team has three formula "speed" cars set for competition this year. Unfortunately during testing one car ran into some difficulties such as sprocket alignments being off, chains being thrown from the cars, and an engine that need retuning. Luckily all cars were running well by competition time. The first day of competition, rain led to a few bad runs, but fortunately the second day the team had the best runs out of all the schools in competition.

The Jasper High School Robotics team, 3559, the Thundercats, had a successful year with building their robot. Each student played a key role in the design, prototyping, and construction of their competition robot. New members were able to learn any manufacturing process they pleased in the process of building the 2017 competition robot. They can learn anything from programming to welding, to even cutting out custom parts with a CNC Router.

TV AND The Scratch

By: Allison Rogers and Kayla Thimling

Radio and TV is a class of dedicated, passionate, and visionary students who aspire to be film makers, scriptwriters, sport broadcasters, journalists, reporters, and other careers steeped in the modern age of media and technology. Requiring copious amounts of extracurricular time as well as bustling in-class projects, the production quality of these students introduces a new meaning to student novelty and ingenuity. More than just a class for those inclined towards media, Radio/TV and The Scratch provide opportunities with one of the most direct and communicative outlets for interacting with other people in the modern age. This year brought a lot of success in competitions as well, including several individual and group wins along with placing 3rd for TV school of the year at Indiana Association of School Broadcasters. Two national finalists at BPA. Plus accomplishments in WNIN's Shorts by High Schoolers, and the national Ten Day Film Fest.

Choir isn't just a class, it's a family. Together, everyone learns about how to use and strengthen their voices. Mrs. Burns offers different options for her music classes. Ambassador Choir is for students who are looking for a bigger challenge. This choir works towards perfecting every small detail together. As for Choir One and Choir Two, this class is for students who are just getting started in music. Every year towards the end of the school year, Mrs. Burns holds auditions for her Ambassadors Choir. This year she held auditions for a new all womens choir.

6th period concert band is more than just a class - it's an art form. They practice hard to perform music for those who attend their concerts, as well as those who attend graduation. The music is hard to perform, but with the countless days in class and the many practices after school rehearsing and sight reading music, the concert band is sure to always perform perfectly. Serious about music and performing, the members of the concert band spend many hours perfecting every piece they perform.

and Symphonic Bands

Symphonic band is known for its musical perfection. Every day, members of the band meet for a 50 minute class period (5th period) to practice their intricate music selections. The band also has many after school rehearsals to help the band build up their act for the competitions they compete in. Every year, the band participates in a traditional concert that many other high school bands participate in throughout the state.

Octagon Club

Though a very new club at Jasper High School, Octagon Club is all about making a difference. Created in 1988, the club is a youth based service organization. The service-based club may have been new this year, but the club still held many events around the community, such as reading to little kids at Precious Blood.

Just for Pablo

On Tuesday, April 18 Jasper High School hosted quite a surprise for one student. Emily Huddleston received quite a shock when she was led to an awards ceremony for her instead of the class photo she was expecting. Mr. Elrod, the Jasper High School yearbook adviser had told the class to dress nicely for an updated class photo. Little did the class know what awaited them in the atrium of the school. As they walked into the atrium a line of people awaited them, the majority with cameras. It was there that Cam Bardwell, the Jostens representative for the region, surprised the junior by walking out the office doors holding two awards. Once the first award was handed out Huddleston was filled with shock, but when she was handed the second award she burst into tears and had to walk away from the group of her classmates. "I felt pretty overwhelmed. I grabbed the award and I was like "Oh my god I can't believe this is happening," states Emily about the moment she received her awards. Huddleston recuperated with a luncheon with her fellow yearbook members after the exciting event.

Emily Huddleston has been a member of Interactive Media since her freshman year. Although she wasn't technically a part of the class her sophomore year, she still helped with the making of the yearbook and her name is featured on many pages in the 2016 yearbook. Emily, also affectionately known as Pablo, became the 2017 co-editor of the "J" and has been a major force in the class ever since. This year has been a year of firsts for the quirky teen; first camera, first (but not the last) year as editor, and her first time receiving recognition for her photography skills. Huddleston placed first in the "Portrait" category of the Jostens 2017 U.S. photo contest, and received an honorable mention for her picture in the "Student Traditions" category. Cam Bardwell, a Jostens representative of 16 years said that "out of all the schools (I've worked) with in the area, there's never even been an honorable mention awarded!"

Huddleston is one student that deserves recognition the most. She's always working hard on everything that has to do with the yearbook; from page layouts to tagging photos. Even when she isn't at school,

Huddleston still focuses on everything yearbook, and she does so with a smile. Emily is a student who invites others into things that she does, and she's known for her jokes that make everyone laugh, like an email she sent out last year that had everyone that knew her laughing! "I saw talent in her in many different aspects. Yearbook is really different from other things because you have to be able to capture the pictures and the story, and for many things you only have one chance. Sometimes it takes a while to make the photos and the words work together in a single person and they could just be an okay staff member until senior year (or maybe even until they graduate). It takes passion and vision to be great and I could tell (Mila) and Emily both just had it from the start, even if you couldn't see it (in) yourselves at first," says Mariya Merkley, a three time editor of the Jasper High School yearbook, and the editor when Huddleston was a freshman. When it comes to the design of the yearbook, she knows exactly what it should look like. And although the school year isn't over, she already has an idea of what next year's yearbook will look like. Though she may only be a junior, Emily Huddleston has a bright future ahead of her full of design and photography.

A Year of Firsts

a year of firsts for many of the members of the tennis team. Senior Kathleen Messmer played varsity for her final season, and freshman Suchi Bandaru also joined the the upper class dominated team. Though it is not typical for a freshman to play for the varsity team, the veteran players welcomed Bandaru with open arms. Although both varsity and JV had several new members, the teams finished off the season confidently. When asked how she would describe the team, senior Kathleen Messmer senior stated, "growth," and went on to explain, "we started off the season kind of shaky because we had a new lineup on varsity, so just trying to figure out our rhythm and it was really interesting how we've come together to get where we are now." Being new to the varsity team, Messmer was happy to be a part of the growth that helped to motivate the team, and was rewarded by being half of the doubles point that clinched a semi state victory with fellow senior Jillian Seger. This year marks an end to the legacy that the three seniors have led, but with new members, like Suchi Bandaru, will continue to lead the tennis team to victory.

"It teaches you how to be headstrong, and to keep a level head when circumstances just aren't in your favor. You just kind of have to deal with it and come out on top."

It was a new team this year for Varsity girls softball, considering half of the team had graduated the year before. The Jasper girls won right off the bat when the season began on March 20, with Jasper beating Linton-Stockton 9-0. The next few games were a bit rocky, but that did not let the girls deter their confidence. On April 4, the girls won 10-0 up against Heritage Hills. On April 15, the girls brought home another easy win, where they won against North Posey 11-0. Though many games were postponed due to the musty rain, the wins went on. The girls played a hard fight at sectionals, but came up short against Vincennes Lincoln, losing the match 0-1.

This past year, the girls track team finished with conference and sectional championship wins. Many of the senior track girls had the opportunity to leave their mark with the team. Senior Tara Cassidy, for example, had scored the most points out of all the girls on the team for the season, with 142 points. Sophomore Zoe Biggs was close behind in second place with 128.75 points for the whole season. Throughout the year, the girls have come face to face with big wins and had the experience to grow as a team that will benefit the next years' newcomers.

Out with the old and in with the new does not only regard the team. Along with the new turf field for football, Jasper

High School is also fortunate enough to get a new track. With construction going on through the summer, the girls and boys track teams are excited to compete on the track this next school year and for many more years to come.

Make Way to the Podium

This year, the boys track team held at high standards, especially with team member senior Cale Killian. Last year, Killian had the opportunity to compete at the state track competitions, just as he did this year. However, this season, he landed on the podium. "Making it to the state finals was one of the best experiences of my life." Killian says, "It felt amazing. It was a huge honor to represent my school and town." Killian participated in 5ks when he was younger, finding his stride in running long distances. "My older sisters also ran track, so I thought I would join too." he adds. With the many meets the boys have, they are bound to make memories together. "My favorite memory was winning sectional back to back my junior and senior year and placing 7th in state." says Killian, "Also just being with my teammates every day. It's fun." Killian plans on continuing his career at Indiana State University to run track and cross country. Through many hardships, Killian and the rest of the boys track team found ways to work with one another as a team as hard as the could to be successful. It all paid off in the end.

Where there any major hardships you had to overcome throughout your track career at JHS?

"A hardship I had to overcome was in sophomore year when I was hurt and couldn't run in sectionals and had to bounce back the next year."

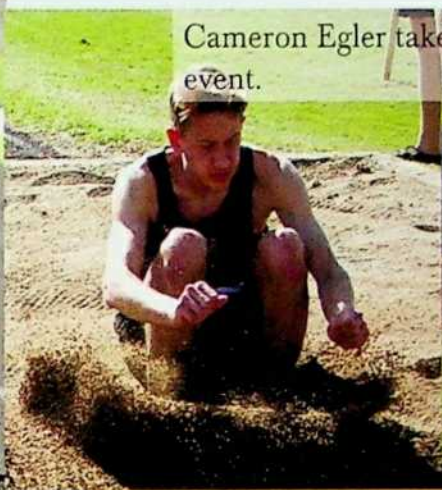

- Cale Kilian

The Beginners

The success of such a strong baseball varsity team all comes back down to the training of the players on the JV/Freshman teams. Through thick and thin, the boys go through rough team practices, taking the shape of a future team that will make it to the state finals their junior or senior years. The rain this past spring did not exactly help out, making the fields a soggy mess during practices and, at some times, potentially canceling games. But that only made the boys work harder, revealing who was willing to be the best of the best.

Senior Amy Stork stretches before a meet.

The unified track team does the 100 yard dash, shot put, and long jump. Before a meet they all come together and stretch out all the nerves.

Unified track is more than just a team: it is a family. A popular sport the past few years here at JHS, the boys and girls track and field teams join sides with students both with and without intellectual disabilities for a fun time out on the track. With the teams combined, they represent their school as one and compete in sanctioned IHSA competitions. With the multiple practices and the few competitions, where the special needs students carpool with senior track members, students of all different grades, personalities, and disabilities unite as one to form friendships and an impact that will last a life time.

Play Through

The past few seasons of JHS boys golf has seen some exceptional ball strikers finish their careers with a state run, and move on to play collegiate golf. Every year, this gives younger players the chance to play through at a new pace. This year saw a mix of seasoned players, and young up-and-comers that ensures a strong team next year. Senior leader Carson Pierce recalls one of the more memorable matches of the season. "We saw the potential of our team during the match at Lucas Oil where we shot 2 over as a team". Pierce also snagged a hole in one and broke the JHS 9 hole match record by shooting a 5 under and leading the team to a 145 (1 over par) on senior night. The sectional champion Wildcats unfortunately play in the toughest region in the state, and even posted their second lowest score of the season while placing 8th as a team at regionals. Other highlights of the season obviously include Pierce's state run which included a rain delayed nerve filled first day, followed by a much more relaxed and low scoring second day day. Great rounds from younger players like Bryan Hagan, Jack Bies, and Evan Wolfe, and great fun from seniors Lucas Lehane, and the always entertaining Matt Lottes.

No matter the condition, this team went out and swung for the perfect round.

State "Bump & Run"

"I can remember having a goal of making it to either team or individual state, so it was an incredible experience to make it as a senior."

The camaraderie trailing the swirling dust trails of the Wildcats Varsity Baseball team never fails to disperse with the rotation of the team's devout players from season to season. Taxing practices and arduous summer conditioning sessions reveal the Wildcats' fixed qualities of dexterity, agility, and ingenuity for the logistics of baseball, however, the talent of the Wildcats is rendered as common knowledge among the masses of Wildcat supporters. The talent evident with each passing class remains a well-known characteristic for JHS baseball, however, the team's teasing and light hearted antics remain secret from the public eye. Offering an inside look into the team's activities, senior Mason Thewes discloses the team's ritual of arriving early to the fieldhouse and listening to music prior to practices and games. In honor of a victorious match against long-held rival the Washington Hatchets, Thewes fondly recalls the team's jubilant celebratory stop during the Wildcats' bus ride home at a restaurant promising rewards of root beer and chili dogs. The memorable trip to the Louisville baseball game will forever stick with the Varsity team, as well as its graduating nine seniors. Stirring up dirt devils in the Class 3A state tournament, the Wildcats advanced to the state championship game against South Bend in Indianapolis. As the dust settled with the team's state championship game, the Wildcats slid into second place, uttering teary goodbyes to the season and, more importantly, to each other as the nine seniors prepare for more adventures awaiting in their collegiate years.

What's an inside memory that the team will always remember years into the future?

"Super skinny... it's an inside joke among the players."

Wildcat Features

WildcatWeekly is the student-run news website, a product of the Interactive Media class.

Although it would be wonderful to have every story that appeared on the website in the yearbook, we only have so much space.

Throughout the book, there will be numerous stories that the students have published on the site throughout this school year. We hope you enjoy this look back.

Sweet Treats

Story By: Laci Smith
March 17, 2017

The Jasper High School PTO (Parent Teacher Organization) does the the cook out and free ice cream sundae days every year. They do this to give back to the students, and give them a stress free time during their school day. On March 17, St. Patrick's day, they again offered free ice cream sundaes. The PTO orders 80 gallons of vanilla ice cream two weeks in advance to prepare for this day. It takes up to 15 people for the ice cream to be delivered smoothly out to all the students. Most of the workers are scoopers, letting the students pick up their bowl and pick their own toppings. The toppings include cherry and chocolate syrup, sprinkles, and whipped cream. All the toppings are optional and if you so wish to not get any topping that is okay too. When asked junior Breanna Truesdale said, "It makes me look toward to lunch and satisfies my sweet tooth for the day."

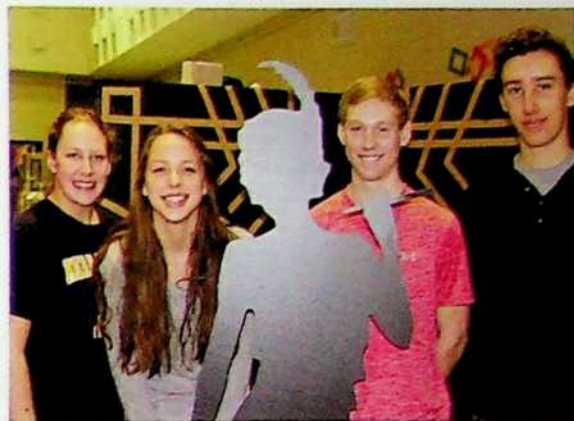

Behind the Scene

Story By: Mila Vernon

April 1, 2017

On April 8, 2017 Jasper High School will host their prom. This year the theme of prom is The Great Gatsby, and post prom is themed Under the Boardwalk. Tickets have been purchased, and post prom tickets have been handed out. Every year the junior class helps to fund, and decorate prom by voting on the theme and building the decorations that will be set up for prom. The juniors help pay for prom by either paying a fee, or working concessions at a basketball game. Some juniors who wish to be more involved with the planning join a student committee that helps to make the idea come to life. Ms. Schuetter leads the committee and organizes the meetings. The committee meets sporadically to build props and backdrops, and to paint decorations for the event. The committee is also helped by the PTA, who collect tickets for post prom, and help to run post prom. "It's not something that we just throw together, and I believe that all the hard work put into it really makes prom special for everyone," states junior Kaitlyn Neukam about her view on the committee. The committee continues to meet until the day of prom where all of their hard work will be revealed to the prom attendees.

Creative Crafts//Library Edition

Story By: Allison Rogers

April 11, 2017

This week in the library numerous art works were put on display in various areas. Some were found on the shelves, near the windows, or out in sitting areas for students to check out. The arts works are of different types including pencil sketch, pastel, line drawing, and oil. Students had the choice to choose whatever subject they wished, so everyone went with their best or favorite work they created this year. There were artworks reflective of students childhood, imagination, favorite belongings, or abstract works. Led by Mr. Dodd, this talented group of students displayed their sketches and skills for the student body to see. In the artwork above, Swiss foreign exchange student Moira Frey painted a portrait of herself when she was child. Holding a cloth in her hand and wearing black overalls, Moira put her brush to work to create a stunning and defined piece. These projects vary in length of time they took to produce, some a few weeks, some a few days, but all worth the sweat and hand cramps to see a final product. Other students found propped on easels in the library are Katie Bell, Amanda Ackerman, Hilary Bauer, Abby Simone and countless more with amazing artworks for all to see. If you want to see expressive and bright colors on a canvas make sure to swing by the library and check out all the work and support student artist!

Silence Speaks When Words Can't

Story By: John Lee

April 24, 2017

April 21 is the Day of Silence. This day is a student-led event that occurs in thousands of schools nationwide by bringing awareness to the effects of anti-LGBTQ bullying and harassment in schools. By staying silent for an entire day, students are shown the effects of someone taking their own life due to being apart of the LGBT community. The Jasper High School's GSA set out a plain white banner and paint for students to place their hand on the banner showing their participation in the day of silence. Day of Silence has been held every year since 1996. The first event was held at the University of Virginia and organized by Maria Pulzetti. Since then, GLSEN (Gay Lesbian and Straight Education Network) has taken the reins from Pulzetti. Many students who have participated in this say that it is quite challenging to stay silent for an entire day. Students are not expected to stay completely silent because the Day of Silence is no excuse to not participate in class.

Planting in Biology

Story By: Rhegann Weisheit
May 12, 2017

Earth day has come and gone, but that has not stopped Ms. Spellmeyer's biology classes. With their discussion of human impact on the environment, Spellmeyer's fifth period class took a trip outside and showed their love for nature by planting flowers and pulling weeds in the front landscaping of the school grounds.

Freshman Allison Bielawa claims that doing this project helps motivate her to care for the environment and hopes that it will also help her classmates. Allison planted two flowers and even gave a shout out to her friend, because although "she did not plant a flower, she did hug a tree and that's all we can ask from her!" Allison joked.

Although planting flowers was a main goal of this project, there were additional duties to be done. There were student groups pulling weeds up and around the school, while another group carried large buckets of water all the way up to the road and making their way back to the sidewalk. Ms. Spellmeyer hopes that this will show the kids that even though there can be negative impacts on the environment, there can be positive ones as well.

Indy's Fair Lady

Story By: Kayla Thimling
April 28, 2017

Wednesday, April 26, JHS students and teachers S.J. Burns and Mrs. Luebbehusen traveled north to the city of Indianapolis to the Beef and Boards production theater. Beef and Boards theater offers dining and dessert prior to the presentation of a play. Until May 14 of 2017, the Beef & Boards theater of Indianapolis is putting on the famous production of My Fair Lady. The play's events follow phoneticist Henry Higgins's, played by David Schmittou, efforts to correct the grammar and speech of Eliza Doolittle, played by Kimberly Doreen Burns. After a three hour trek from Jasper, the students delved into the provided buffet followed by a complimentary dessert. A spread of steamed vegetables, mashed potatoes, alfredo pasta, choice of meat, and a salad bar plus additional sides were prepared. Simple white cake and light frosting finished off the meal with an aftertaste pleasant to most palates. The theatre's productions continue yearlong, with the next change of play coming as soon as May 18 – July 2 with the well-known children's movie produced by DreamWorks known as, Shrek the Musical. The dates for the lineup of the year's plays are listed as shown: Ring of Fire: the Songs of Johnny Cash (July 6-August 13), West Side Story (August 17-October 1), and Ghost: The Musical (October 5-November 19).

Radical Student Radio (NHSRD)

Story By: Tyler
Armstrong
May 2, 2017

Wednesday, April 26, was National High School Radio Day. The student run radio station 93.7 The Scratch operating out of Jasper High School, celebrated this joyous occasion. Seniors Geordon Terwiske (left) and Brea Mullen (right), shown on the air below, start the first radio shift of the day off, marking this annual holiday. Brea co-host of the radio show 'the Jam Bam' had this to say about how she felt about National High School Radio Day, "I think national high school radio day is a good day to reflect about all the hard work the radio and tv class has put in to the station and reflect about all the things that the station has accomplished." Brea also stated that, "My favorite part about the day is being on the radio and connecting to and interacting with this audience through their requests." Along with her fellow Radio/TV 2 students and co-hosts of the Jam Bam, (left photo) Amanda Ackerman and Hilary Bauer had this to say about this important day. "My favorite part about high school radio day was having the entire radio and TV 2 class on the air even though some of us may like TV more than radio." Ackerman added, "For me it's a day to celebrate radio, and especially how lucky we are to have the Scratch in Jasper because we are one of the few high schools in the country that have a radio station, so it's just a really nice time to celebrate that." The third Jam Bam host and Scratch Program Director Hilary Bauer enjoys the camaraderie. "Everyone in the media classes come together to share our love for the radio along with local support from the community. Which is nice because sometimes radio can be an overlooked media, and we can come back to our radio roots and see how far we've come in so many years." Radio supervisor and media teacher Mr. Elrod enjoys the yearly challenge of organizing the activities for the celebration. Past years have included talking to industry professionals during class, broadcasting on the stage in the cafeteria, staying live on the air all day and setting a goal of one thousand likes on The Scratch's Facebook page, which is what took place this year. Mr. Elrod also stated that he liked the brotherhood a radio station provides by having students join together along with having a certain kinship with other high schools across the country that also have a radio station. Mr. Elrod finished off by saying, "National High School Radio Day means a lot, it means that we're not the only ones that are doing this, and that there are other schools that find value in high school radio, it means that there is still a place for radio, whether it be in the traditional sense, or in the new age of online streaming, or visual radio. It means that there is still a future for audio, and I love that we are able to celebrate that just one day a year."

Activities for the night varied, and people took advantage of every opportunity. The prom committee made backdrops for the night, some of which were "The Eyes" and a police station. The prom also hosted a photo booth, and post prom had different inflatables and a ping pong table.

No Party Like a Gatsby Party

Planning for the 2017 prom started earlier in the year than one would anticipate. A theme was decided upon, and the decorations were designed and built by the prom committee that is made up of juniors. "It's not something that we just throw together, and I believe that all the hard work put into it really makes prom special for everyone," said junior Katelyn Neukam about the prom committee.

Prom went off without a hitch. The crowd rushed into the front doors to take off their coats and shoes before walking down a long doorway to the dance floor. The majority of the students' night was spent dancing, talking, and taking photos. When the crowning began the crowd cheered in anticipation of who their prom king and queen would be. Seniors Hannah Erny and Mason Thewes were crowned, and the crowd exploded in applause for the couple. After the king and queen were crowned, juniors Olivia Ruckriegel and Nolan Harmon were crowned the prince and princess for the special event. Post prom hosted the normal event of the "casino," inflatables, and giant, glow in the dark volleyball, but this year they added inflatable balls and giant Jenga games.

BIG APPLE

The time was 4:30am. Seventeen students and four chaperons were groggy, packing their things into the charter bus. Next stop, Louisville International Airport. An hour and thirty minutes for everyone to rest their eyes for a moment before it was time for the hustle and bustle of the airport. Once they arrived at the airport, the seventeen students and four chaperons got their tickets, went through security and were now heading to their seats on the plane to Newark Liberty International Airport. Everyone was taking advantage of the time they had to sleep. Two hours later, it was time to start their first day in New York. Within the four days the group had in New York, Zuely had a weekend plan filled with adventure. From Broadway shows to memorials and museums, everyone had something to look forward to. While the group was in the Big Apple, they went to three different performances. The first performance was "The Rockettes' Christmas Spectacular." "That was the cutest thing I have ever seen!" commented Kylie Schweikarth. The Rockettes are a group of women who practice many times a day to be perfectly in sync. The second performance the group saw was "Waitress." The main character, Jenna, is a waitress and expert pie maker. She dreams of a life outside of her small town and her loveless marriage. Pregnant with the child of her deadbeat husband, she tries to find a way out. "Sugar, Butter, Flower." repeats Kyle Hollinden after Jenna. The next performance the group saw was "Something Rotten." The story is set in 1595, and follows two brothers who are struggling in the world of theater. Their competitor, William Shakespeare. The two brothers Nigel and Nick go around trying to find the perfect musical.

During the four days, students were allowed time to travel around and explore a portion of the city and eat lunch at various different locations. Some students took advantage of that time shopping rather than eating. Students went and saw Trump Tower, Tiffany & Co, Saks Fifth Avenue, St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Theatre District, Central Park, and various other locations around New York City. On the final day, the crew went to the Museum of Modern Art. With only an hour, many students tried to explore as much as they possibly could while others spent time at each individual piece of artwork. After looking around at the different pieces of work, students went to purchase items at MOMA, spending longer than planned at the museum. The group finished the trip touring around Lincoln Center and learning the stories of many great artists. Sadly it was time for the group to head home. The original time for departure was 8:15, but due to weather the trip back home got delayed. The plane was very close to being canceled. Finally departing at midnight, the group didn't make it back to Jasper until almost 3am.

The Final Fist Bump

The LGI was full of laughter as the seniors waited in anticipation for commencement to begin. The final walk was slow and long awaited. Valedictorian Nicole Hentrup nervously chatted with friends, and laughed with teachers as the seniors filed into the gymnasium. When it was time for the salutatorian, Abigail Hopf, to give her speech she quickly made her way to the stage and gave a hilarious final presentation which consisted of jokes about her own quiet nature.

The ceremony went off without a hitch, and soon the seniors were filing out to attend graduation parties, and to celebrate the end of their high school career. Many students plan to head to college in the fall. When asked about how she felt about college, senior Katelyn Lawson said "I'm excited about college, it's a fresh start." Her plans reflect the plans of many of the graduates of 2017.

Oh, What a YEAR(book)

Every year presents different challenges when creating a book that captures the entire school year. This senior heavy group of students rose to the occasion and compiled a variety of photos and stories that encapsulate 2016-17. The management team included Co-Editors, Mila Vernon and Emily Huddleston, Business manager, Laci Smith, Photo Editor, Allison Rogers, and WildcatWeekly.org Editor Kayla Thimling. Obviously one of our best memories of the year had to be Emily winning the coveted portrait category of the nation wide Jostens photo competition. (See page 95) But, through photo scavenger hunts, business ad sales trips, clocking over lunch, or the dedication of working over the summer to finish this book. So many other memories were made through our time together. Each student brought something different to the table through their individual talents, skills, work ethic, or personality. I want to thank the seniors for their hard work, and hope this yearbook is something they can be proud to say they were a part of.

Co-Editor, Mila Vernon (Junior) painted special "last week" messages on posters around the school to remind students about the last chance to order the 2017 yearbook.
